

'Upset Bug' Poses Threat To Top-Ranked Huskers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's top-ranked football team, which has been hit by a mid-week flu bug each week since the opening of the season, has managed to avoid that bug on weekends, along with avoiding a more dangerous bug, the upset bug.

That latter bug has landed in more places than normal for this early in the season, striking such major football powers as Arkansas, Georgia Tech and Minnesota last weekend.

The Huskers, who wind up their pre-conference schedule at 1:30 Saturday afternoon with Utah State invading Memorial Stadium, are such an overwhelming favorite that the nation's oddsmakers aren't even listing the game on their parlay sheets.

Underdogs Triumph
But the same was true a week ago of underdogs Army, Tulsa and Washington State in going against Georgia Tech, Arkansas and Minnesota, respectively. The underdogs won all three in major upsets.

In all three cases the winning coaches credited the upsets primarily to psychological factors.

This week, Utah State was given a big psychological sword for its battle with the Huskers, whose unbeaten string now stands at 22, when Husker head coach Bob Devaney was misquoted as saying, "We're still waiting to play the best teams

Coaches' Capsules

Nebraska's Bob Devaney — "Utah State coach Chuck Mills is one of the best recruiters in college football and he's come up with some good athletes. We had trouble with them when we played them before and they could be tough again."

Utah State's Chuck Mills — "This is survival week for us. We'll have to check the kids' adrenalin and the dilation of their pupils. If they're not dilated we're in real trouble."

on our schedule — Colorado and Oklahoma."

What he actually said was, "We admit that we haven't played a real good team as yet, but we're not even thinking about Colorado or Oklahoma because we've got some good teams on our schedule coming up before we get to them."

While many coaches would have Devaney's quote pinned at key points in their locker room, Utah State coach Chuck Mills claims he hasn't used it.

"Far be it from me to refute Bob Devaney," he says. "What if it's true. We're just gonna come into Lincoln and trade our blue jerseys for red ones and hope the fans get all mixed up."

'Creates More problems'
"We're not gonna resort to psychology or do anything different. I think it just creates more problems for the kids if you do crazy things."

"Besides, we're in the great position of not being supposed to win."

Physically and on paper, leaving the intangible of psychology out of it, the Aggies aren't supposed to win.

The Aggies have no one with the rushing yardage to match the Huskers' Jeff Kinney, who in three games has rolled up 254 yards.

Leading Ball Carrier
The leading Aggie ball carrier is Jerry Hughes with 193 yards in three games.

In passing, Utah State quarterback Tony Adams has hit on 20 of 38 for 53% and 325 yards while NU's Jerry Tagge is hitting at a phenomenal 68.5% on 37 of 54 for 488 yards.

Utah State is booming split end Bob Wicks for all-American honors and he is the Aggies leading receiver, but his figures of nine catches for 168 yards are topped by the Huskers' Johnny Rodgers, who has snared 14 for 232 yards and four touchdowns.

The visitors do match the home-standing Huskers in one category — they also are 3-0 for the season with wins over Kansas State 10-7, New Mexico State 34-0 and Nevada-Las Vegas 27-7 while NU has defeated Oregon 34-7, Minnesota 35-7 and Texas A&M 34-7.

not intend to take action to interfere with negotiations at the present time."

Hodgson Encouraged
Ziegler told newsmen that Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson was encouraged that a 93-day strike of 15,000 west coast longshoremen was near settlement.

The Association of American Railroads embargoed freight shipments for export on all 69 railroads moving to east coast and gulf coast ports.

Gulf coast dockworkers voted earlier this week to stay on the job after contracts expired at midnight Thursday.

Dockworkers remained on the job at Houston, Galveston and Corpus Christi, Tex. Great Lakes ports were not involved in the strike.

Bargainers for east coast shippers and longshoremen met with federal mediators in Washington until 3 a.m. EDT Friday and agreed to meet again Monday. Both sides rejected a proposal for binding arbitration, a spokesman said.

The key issue between the International Longshoremen's Association and the shippers was the guaranteed annual wage, which the ILA won three years ago after a strike.

New York and Boston longshoremen demanded a continuation of 2,080 hours pay a year — a full 40-hour week — for each man whether there is work for him or not. Dock workers in Philadelphia and Baltimore demanded 1,800 hours guaranteed. Shippers wanted to drop the guaranteed annual wage.

RALLY TEAR-GASSED

Ky Urges Uprising

... At People's Congress

Saigon — South Vietnamese riot policemen made a tear-gas attack Friday night on a Buddhist rally of about 300 people who were protesting Sunday's uncontested presidential election.

A band of students, meanwhile, overturned and set afire a pick-up truck belonging to an American contracting concern a few blocks from the An Quang Pagoda, where the rally was held. The police fired tear gas at the crowd at the intersection where the truck blazed.

Earlier in the day, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky drove through police lines to address a 300-member "people's congress" and to urge "people from all walks of life to rise up with us in the army to overthrow the present dictatorial regime" of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The congress is made up of supporters of Ky and Gen. Duong Van Minh, both of whom dropped out of the presidential race, charging Thieu with election rigging.

The congress met behind cordons of riot police, who closed off with barbed wire all streets around Ky's guest house, where the meeting was held. Tear gas was used briefly against the participants, but the meeting generally went along peacefully.

Pagoda Attack Worse

The police attack on the An Quang Pagoda meeting was far more violent, however, and was the first such assault on the pagoda itself during the current election unrest.

The An Quang Buddhists were acting on a long heritage of anti-government action. Their members, some of whom burned themselves alive in the streets at the time, precipitated the downfall of President Ngo Dinh Diem in the fall of 1963.

The riot police followed their usual practice of surrounding the block in which the An Quang Pagoda is located and preventing anyone, including newsmen, from entering.

But the surrounding Chinese neighborhood has many small alleys and passageways, and young children volunteered as guides to visitors who sought to find their way past the police barricades to the rally scheduled for the pagoda.

Several leading anti-government figures who had participated in the people's congress Friday morning were also present at the An Quang Friday night.

Boycott Message Read

Tran Ngoc Lieng, a prominent anti-government activist, opened the rally by reading the boycott communique issued last month.

He was followed by Thich Giac Duc, a monk who was much in the news in 1963 as a leader of the anti-Diem forces.

"We don't have to obey the Americans," he shouted into his microphone, "so why should we be expected to obey Nguyen Van Thieu, a servant of the Americans?"

Thich Giac Duc had just likened Thieu to Hitler when the first tear gas bombs began to explode in the street outside the pagoda. The choking, stinging gas billowed into the auditorium, and the audience, including many women and young people, rushed for the exit.

Regents Meet Today:

No Attack On Sex Programs Expected

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents will probably issue a statement Saturday morning saying it cannot legally take action on a student government-sponsored conference next week on the Lincoln campus.

A special meeting of the board has been called to discuss the matter, and it was believed a board majority will agree that regental tampering with the conference on human sexuality would violate First Amendment freedoms.

The meeting was set for 10 a.m. in Room 202 of the Nebraska Union.

'Hands Are Tied'

It was called, according to Regent Robert Prokop of Papillion, to "point out the fact (to the public) that our hands are tied on the Time Out conference."

In a telephone interview, Prokop said he wants to "let the people know we're concerned with freedom of expression, although we may not approve of the judgment in this matter."

Prokop is one of two regents who signed a letter calling for the special meeting. The other, James Moylan of Omaha, told The Star he had "no idea" what might happen at the meeting.

Members of the board gathered privately in Lincoln Thursday night to discuss the matter, apparently due to concern off the campus about conference speeches on homosexuality and lesbianism.

Two "same-sex" couples are slated to speak on those topics during the conference, which will run from Tuesday through Friday.

But Prokop said he was not disturbed by "the homosexual angle."

"My major concern," he said, "is I don't feel the program is very well balanced."

Pat Kaminski, the student senator who is coordinating the conference, told The Star the planners were "not trying to include the whole issue" of sexuality.

"To accurately reflect current national

McGovern Would Grant Amnesty To Objectors

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

If he is elected President, Sen. George McGovern pledged Friday, he would declare amnesty for young Americans who evaded the draft for reasons of conscience and initiate major assistance programs for Vietnam veterans.

McGovern's amnesty pledge won a standing ovation from an overflow of 2,000 students on the University of Nebraska campus.

Upon the end of the war, McGovern said, "I would declare a policy of general amnesty for all those who on grounds of conscience went to jail or into foreign exile" to avoid serving in the Vietnam War.

President Noted

Abraham Lincoln set a precedent for amnesty more than 100 years ago when he declared such a policy for all Americans who fought in the civil war, the South Dakota senator noted.

"How much more deserved is a policy of forgiveness (for) young men tormented in their consciences and minds" by the war in Vietnam, he declared.

But, McGovern suggested, those who have opposed war as he has also have "a special obligation" to provide "a generous program of education, job benefits and the best possible medical care" for returning Vietnam veterans.

War 'A Mistake'

Many are "dispirited and demoralized," some have been addicted to drugs and all return to a country which now generally believes the war was a mistake, he noted.

They deserve the best possible assistance, he said.

McGovern, in his third trip to Nebraska since July, was warmly received by students who waited more than 35 minutes for his tardy arrival from Milwaukee.

The Democratic presidential candidate told them that they, and the 25 million other potential new young voters who were not eligible to vote in the last presidential election, have "the power to make the difference in this country."

Power Noted

Through their votes, they can help launch "the second American revolution to bring the first one to life."

America has wandered so far away from its ideals that "we have almost lost our way as a country," he said.

His is a campaign to "call America home," McGovern said. "Let's make America happen again."

The war must be ended immediately and "the lingering cancer of racism, injustice and inequality has to be rooted out without further delay," he said.

Taking note of the fact that NU calls its football team the Big Red, McGovern said, "curiously enough, that's what the vice president called me last week."

'People Are Fed Up'

But, he said, the vice president apparently fails to realize that "the people are fed up with phony scare tactics, false rhetoric and the politics of manipulation."

Ending the war would be "the greatest contribution to ending inflation" in the American economy, McGovern said.

At least $25 billion to $30 billion a year could be saved by ending the war, withdrawing some U.S. troops from Europe and "postponing needless gadgets like the ABM system," he declared.

That money could then be invested in housing, pollution control, day care centers, health facilities and education, he suggested.

McGovern said South Vietnam's presidential election Sunday is "a charade," and he hopes House members who opposed the original Mansfield amendment to set a deadline date for withdrawing troops will realize that and support the newest version of the amendment approved Thursday by the Senate.

Miners, Dockworkers Strike

By United Press International
Some 80,000 soft coal miners across the nation and most of the 45,000 east and gulf coast dockworkers walked out Friday in no-contract, no-work strikes.

Dockworkers from Maine to Louisiana joined west coast longshoremen who went out July 1 and the strike appeared to be spreading to Texas ports. United Mine Workers members struck in seven states.

Negotiators for the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association recessed talks for the weekend. A federal mediator said, "They're a long way apart. They're not even close."

President Nixon studied the implications of a two-coast dock strike but held off seeking a 80-day back-to-work order under the Taft-Hartley Act.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, "We do not feel there is a national emergency in existence. We do

Broadcast Says Chinese Celebrate National Day

Tokyo (AP) — Chinese danced and sang in Peking's parks Friday on National Day and shouted "long live Chairman Mao," a broadcast from Red China's capital reported.

Mao, the center of speculation about recent puzzling events in China, did not appear on this 22nd anniversary of the founding of his regime, although he was in the spotlight at all previous National Day celebrations.

Premier Chou En-lai, Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien and lesser officials went to Yi Ho Park and celebrated the day with "the revolutionary masses of the capital," Radio Peking said.

"An atmosphere of close unity between the army and government and between the army and people prevailed," the broadcast added.

Celebrations ranged from discussions in the parks of what the Chinese had learned from the study of works of Mao, Marx and Lenin, to performances by Mao thought-propaganda teams, the radio said.

Holiday Mood

Japanese correspondents in Peking agreed the capital was in holiday mood. A correspondent for Kyodo News Service said "the Chinese appeared to be in a festive spirit as the Oct. 1 National Day celebrations were held in Peking and other major cities."

"A jubilant atmosphere prevailed in the capital as Peking residents flocked to sing and dance at six celebration sites," the dispatch added.

But it was quite different from previous National Day celebrations of the Communist conquest of the mainland in 1949. There was no massive parade watched by Mao and other leaders in Tian An Men square, no extravaganza of fireworks, no glittering banquet for visiting dignitaries presided over by Chou.

Chou did not even show up for the holiday eve foreign ministry reception, which was substituted for the banquet.

Kyodo said, however, that Chou did attend a reception Friday night attended by 1,000 persons, including Americans, Japanese, North Koreans and Africans, but made no speech. The reception was given by the Chinese People's Association of Friendship With Foreign Countries.

Speculation

Cancellation of the annual parade led to speculation that Mao was ill, but Chinese officials say his health is excellent and the decision not to hold the parade was made for economy reasons.

As if to dispel rumors of Mao's health or a power struggle involving Chou, Pai Hsiang-kuo, minister of external trade now visiting Paris, told President Georges Pompidou that he brought greetings from both officials.

Still, some major questions remained unanswered.

Why, for instance, did no picture of Mao appear on the National Day edition of People's Daily, official Communist Party newspaper? This has been traditional.

Or why did People's Daily and other leading newspapers issue no joint National Day editorial, as in the past?

The Chinese media have not even mentioned the cancellation of the parade.

Peking broadcast the text of a anniversary congratulatory messages sent to Mao, his designated successor Lin Biao, and Chou from leaders of Romania, North Vietnam, Albania and Prince Norodom Sihanouk's Cambodian government in exile in Peking.

In Hong Kong and Tokyo, Communist Chinese organizations invited several Western newsmen, including some whose governments do not recognize Red China, to receptions commemorating the anniversary.

Embargo Placed On Some Overseas Mail

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Postal Service placed an embargo on surface, nonpreferential bulk international mails Friday but said the longshoremen's strike would have only a minimal effect on U.S. mails.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said that all military mail, all international air mail and air parcel post, and all mail, surface and air, for Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, the Canal Zone, Guam and the trust territories were continuing to be accepted and delivered.

The Postal Service will try to deliver all international surface bulk mails that were deposited before the strike, he said.

"No absolute embargo has been considered necessary yet on surface international letter and preferential mails which constitute only a small part of the total U.S. mail volume to most foreign countries," Blount said.

"However, post offices are urging customers to use air surface for such mails."

Lincoln Post Office Notified

The Lincoln Post Office reported it had been notified of the embargo on surface, nonpreferential bulk international mail.

Senate Insists Administration Add $150 Million For School Lunches

(c) Washington Star

Washington — By a vote of 75 to 5 the Senate insisted Friday that the Nixon administration add an estimated $150 million to school lunch programs for the next year.

In an unusual move, the Senate passed a joint Senate-House resolution that writes school lunch regulations for the Agriculture Department.

The House is expected to go along, and congressional parliamentarians agree that the resolution will have the force of law unless the President vetoes it.

It directs the Agriculture Department to subsidize local school districts by 45 cents for lunch for every needy child, rather than the 35-cent limit imposed by a controversial regulation announced by the administration Aug. 13.

The resolution also is a device which the Senate Agriculture Committee hit upon to force the spending of appropriations that have been impounded by the administration.

It is one of the few times that a congressional agriculture committee has disputed the policy and plans of the executive Agriculture Department.

It also marks a new attempt by the Senate to force President Nixon to spend several billion dollars which have been appropriated for various programs but which Nixon has impounded to prevent greater budget deficits.

Hruska 1 Of 5 Voting Against Lunch Increase

Washington (AP) — Roman Hruska, R-Neb., was one of five senators who voted against the Talmadge resolution Friday to increase payments for free and reduced-price school lunches for needy youngsters.

The warm autumn weather in Chicago is blessing the seasoned girl watchers with a prolonged miniskirt and hot pants-watching season. Truckers Driven To Drug Use

... Driver Says

(c) Washington Star

Washington — Outmoded work rules and poorly enforced federal regulations have driven many of the nation's truck drivers to the use of amphetamines and pep pills as "a condition of employment," a Senate subcommittee was told Friday.

Lincoln Merrill, a truck driver from Winston-Salem, N.C., said, "It's either take a pill and go, or quit ... It's a condition of employment."

"The driver goes from stop to stop, panic-stricken. They're always telling you if you can't make it we'll hire a man who can," Merrill testified.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, himself a former truck driver, said too many drivers face a "cruel choice" of taking pills or falling asleep at the wheel.

"It's like giving a man the choice between killing himself slowly or killing himself quickly," Hughes said.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the pressure that causes truck drivers to resort to drugs stem from five principal sources:

—Short notice given drivers in the assignment of rounds.

—The length-of-service hours permitted by federal regulations adopted 30 years ago and now outmoded by modern highway conditions and speed limits. The regulations prohibit more than 10 hours of driving, or duty tours of more than 15 hours. But many companies circumvent these rules, Nader said.

—Insufficient amount of time allowed for completing a trip.

—Unsafe truck design both in cab interiors and operating equipment.

—Inadequate vehicle maintenance.

Nader said the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety of the Transportation Department is "grossly undermanned and underfinanced."

Medicare Deductible
Goes To $68

Washington (UPI) — Because of rising hospital costs, Medicare patients will have to pay the first $68 of their hospital bills next year — an $8 increase, the government announced Friday.

The boost in the present $60 hospital deductible for Americans aged 65 or older who are eligible for Medicare was announced by Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW said hospital costs under Medicare rose 13% last year over 1969.

About one-fifth of the nation's 20.5 million Medicare elderly were hospitalized in the past year, at a cost of $800 for an average 12 days of treatment.

"The action I was required to take today further emphasizes the urgency of action to put a brake on hospital costs escalation," said Richardson.

Under Medicare, patients pay the average cost of the first day of hospital care — presently $60. The government pays the rest until the 61st day, when the Medicare patient begins paying $15 a day through the 90th day. On Jan. 1, this will rise from $15 to $17 a day.

Post-hospital treatment in a nursing home will increase $1 a day next year from the 21st through the 100th day, rising from $7.50 to $8.50 a day.

WEATHER BLESSES GIRL WATCHERS

The warm autumn weather in Chicago is blessing the seasoned girl watchers with a prolonged miniskirt and hot pants-watching season. These workers taking their noon break express their obvious approval as a leggy lass passes their outpost. The Windy City was in its second day of 90-degree or higher temperatures Friday.

Embargo Placed On Some Overseas Mail

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Postal Service placed an embargo on surface, nonpreferential bulk international mails Friday but said the longshoremen's strike would have only a minimal effect on U.S. mails.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said that all military mail, all international air mail and air parcel post, and all mail, surface and air, for Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, the Canal Zone, Guam and the trust territories were continuing to be accepted and delivered.

The Postal Service will try to deliver all international surface bulk mails that were deposited before the strike, he said.

"No absolute embargo has been considered necessary yet on surface international letter and preferential mails which constitute only a small part of the total U.S. mail volume to most foreign countries," Blount said.

"However, post offices are urging customers to use air surface for such mails."

Lincoln Post Office Notified

The Lincoln Post Office reported it had been notified of the embargo on surface, nonpreferential bulk international mail.

Senate Insists Administration Add
$150 Million For School Lunches

(c) Washington Star

Washington — By a vote of 75 to 5 the Senate insisted Friday that the Nixon administration add an estimated $150 million to school lunch programs for the needy.

In an unusual move, the Senate passed a joint Senate-House resolution that writes school lunch regulations for the Agriculture Department.

The House is expected to go along, and congressional parliamentarians agree that the resolution will have the force of law unless the President vetoes it.

It directs the Agriculture Department to subsidize local school districts by 45 cents for lunch for every needy child, rather than the 35-cent limit imposed by a controversial regulation announced by the administration Aug. 13.

The resolution also is a device which the Senate Agriculture Committee hit upon to force the spending of appropriations that have been impounded by the administration.

It is one of the few times that a congressional agriculture committee has disputed the policy and plans of the executive Agriculture Department.

It also marks a new attempt by the Senate to force President Nixon to spend several billion dollars which have been appropriated for various programs but which Nixon has impounded to prevent greater budget deficits.

Judge Frees Man Jailed
In Pentagon Papers Leak

Los Angeles (UPI) — A federal judge Friday freed Anthony J. Russo, the only person jailed in the Pentagon Papers leak, and in a precedent-shattering ruling ordered the government to give Russo a copy of his secret grand jury testimony to make public.

The decision was an unexpected victory for Russo and Daniel Ellsberg, former colleagues at the Rand Corp. think tank, who have said they worked together on the public disclosure of the controversial Pentagon report on the origins of the Vietnam war.

"Wonderful, wonderful," enthused Ellsberg. "This is a great victory."

Ellsberg has been indicted for violations of the security laws, for leaking the Pentagon Papers to newsmen, by the same grand jury that jailed Russo for 47 days for refusing to testify about his association with Ellsberg.

Russo agreed Friday to give the grand jury the testimony the government has demanded — but only on the condition that he be given a copy of the official transcript of the proceedings, saying he intended to make it public.

Ellsberg has vowed to turn his trial into a public forum on the Pentagon Papers and the issues of the Vietnam war, and Russo's making public his grand jury testimony was expected to have the same effect.

U.S. District Judge Warren J. Ferguson ordered Russo freed on his own recognizance until the grand jury hears him Oct. 18, and said that if he answers all questions put to him, he will be cleared of the contempt charge.

"There is to be no commercialization" of the transcript, the judge ordered, telling Russo he would be given only one copy, and he would be allowed to show it to newsmen and others, but that he must keep the transcript himself and allow no copies to be made of it.

Truckers Driven To Drug Use

... Driver Says

(c) Washington Star

Washington — Outmoded work rules and poorly enforced federal regulations have driven many of the nation's truck drivers to the use of amphetamines and pep pills as "a condition of employment," a Senate subcommittee was told Friday.

Lincoln Merrill, a truck driver from Winston-Salem, N.C., said, "It's either take a pill and go, or quit... It's a condition of employment."

"The driver goes from stop to stop, panic-stricken. They're always telling you if you can't make it we'll hire a man who can," Merrill testified.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, himself a former truck driver, said too many drivers face a "cruel choice" of taking pills or falling asleep at the wheel.

"It's like giving a man the choice between killing himself slowly or killing himself quickly," Hughes said.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the pressure that causes truck drivers to resort to drugs stem from five principal sources:

—Short notice given drivers in the assignment of rounds.

—The length-of-service hours permitted by federal regulations adopted 30 years ago and now outmoded by modern highway conditions and speed limits. The regulations prohibit more than 10 hours of driving, or duty tours of more than 15 hours. But many companies circumvent these rules, Nader said.

—Insufficient amount of time allowed for completing a trip.

—Unsafe truck design both in cab interiors and operating equipment.

—Inadequate vehicle maintenance.

Nader said the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety of the Transportation Department is "grossly undermanned and underfinanced."

Locker Plants Face Changes

... With Federal Inspection Effective

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"We processed around 320 deer last year, but we won't be doing it this year because under the meat inspection law we have to suspend processing beef and pork. The decision will cost us between $6 and $7 thousand, but it is even more expensive to suspend our business during deer season,"

Nebraska News

commented one Nebraska locker plant owner when asked about the results of the change over to federal meat inspection, effective Friday.

The federal takeover had been requested by the state.

"We couldn't get everything done by Oct. 1 that they wanted done, but we will soon have all the changes they wanted finished, but it will be expensive. If only they don't keep coming up with new requirements I think we will be all right," said a second plant operator.

Several locker plant operators interviewed by telephone Friday were willing to discuss the change to federal inspection but expressed a wish to remain unidentified. "I don't want to start any war with the new inspectors now. They seem pretty reasonable and I want to keep them that way," said one operator.

The plant operators indicated that sanitation requirements were being strictly enforced, but major remodeling projects required under the regulations can be delayed until equipment is obtained and contractors can get the work done.

"We will work with anyone who is operating a clean plant and producing a wholesome product as long as he is making progress toward a better equipped plant as required by the regulation," said Dr. D. C. Breeden, area supervisor for the USDA inspection system.

Consumers will be affected by shorter hours of service and probably by increased meat prices at some plants, it was indicated.

"We are going to have to pass along some of the costs of additional labor and packaging costs. We have extra stamps to put on every package of meat and that takes extra labor plus we must now use all new boxes to send the meat home with the home freezer owner. We used to use boxes from the local grocery store, but now we have to buy brand new ones under the regulation and that costs money," pointed out a southeast Nebraska locker plant operator.

Many locker plants that operated on a six day week are faced with overtime if they continue the practice of operating on Saturday.

"We are still open on Saturday, but at $64 for the extra day we will have to close up Friday night or find some way to pass along the extra cost to the people we process the meat for," commented an operator.

Most of the operators describe the federal inspectors as a little more particular, but at least one inspector was described as "courteous and well trained." Restrictions on lighting were cited by one operator as an example of fussy regulations that "don't do a darn thing to produce better meat, just result in higher operating costs."

Dr. Breeden said "There are some plants that are delaying operations today because they can't meet the regulations, but I don't think any of them will close permanently. We may eventually have some decide the extra cost of updating their plant won't pay out so they will quit," he said.

Dr. Breeden expects that the USDA inspectors will visit more plants than the state inspectors did.

"The state was unable to inspect all the plants because they were short of men and some of the custom plants are working on upgrading their operations to qualify for official status," he said.

Ken Johnson of the Game and Parks Department advises that people planning on hunting deer make arrangements to have the game processed before hunting. "We had calls from people who had problems getting antelope processed," he said.

The game commission is including a pamphlet on field dressing a deer with the hunting permits.

"We are compiling a list of locker plants that say they will process game which we will make available to the media soon. We have 56 plants thus far, but keep in mind the operators will usually reject improperly dressed game," he said.

6-Year-Old Boy Struck By Auto

Kevin L. May, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex May, of 2601 N. was treated for a broken leg at Bryan Memorial Hospital after he was struck by a car shortly after 8 a.m. Friday, police said.

Police said the boy apparently ran from between two parked cars on N Street, between 26th and 27th. He was struck by a car driven by Peggy J. Bright, 18, of 2224 A, Apt. 2, police said.

Coronation of Queen To Kickoff Wayne State Homecoming

Homecoming at Wayne State College will go western next week with a theme of "Scenes from the Old West" highlighting activities and displays. Most of the events are traditional, starting with the queen coronation Wednesday night. Lighting of campus displays followed by freshman skits are scheduled Thursday night. The traditional Olympics are planned Friday night. Saturday's events will include presentation of the queen and court during the after-

Parents Find Boy, 4, At Police Station

While Robert Lee Barnett, 4, was at the police station Friday afternoon playing games with Policewoman Barbara Buk, several Lincoln radio and television stations were broadcasting pleas for his parents to contact police.

But Robert was back home Friday night about 7:30 following an after-lunch trek downtown from his home at 208 So. 28th.

Mrs. Buk said Robert, who was four years old Sept. 15, was frightened after being taken to the station by police, who found him at 1342 M. But a red balloon and a toy truck soon had Robert playing and giggling, Mrs. Buk said.

A glass of milk, two

"twinkies" and games on the telephone, however, failed to convince Robert he should tell anyone his name.

About 6 p.m. Robert was taken to a foster home, where he finally decided to tell his first name, police said.

A short time later, police said, Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sam Barnett, discovered he was missing and called police.

Barnett said the boy had been playing in the yard after lunch. He said Robert apparently followed the Barnett's landlady when he walked to the First National Bank.

Police said the incident was still being investigated Friday night.

Grand Island Area Blessed By Moisture

Welcome rains fell in the Grand Island area Friday, ranging up to 2.05 inches nine miles north of the Third City.

The moisture preceded colder temperatures moving into Nebraska from the west. Late Friday afternoon Lincoln's thermometer stood at 84 degrees, compared to 44 at Scottsbluff.

Omaha's 90 degree reading Friday set a new record high for the date, topping the previous record of 89 set in 1897. The 89 degree temperature in Lincoln Friday matched the record high for the day also set in 1897.

Nine miles northwest of Wood River a total of 2.60 inches of rain fell in a 20-minute period. St. Libory reported 1.90 and Cairo 1.30. Although Central City itself received only .25 of an inch, eight miles north of that community 1.40 was reported.

Thundershowers covered parts of the west and central areas in the state Friday afternoon with hail at Imperial, Alliance and Valentine.

Cooler temperatures and showers are in the Saturday forecast for the state.

City Youngsters Can Learn About Farm Animals

City youngsters who would like to see and learn about farm animals and their young are invited to a special kids day at the east campus of the University of Nebraska Sunday afternoon from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., sponsored by the Block and Bridle club.

"We will have a horse and colt, a mother pig and her babies, a dairy cow and her calf, some chickens and sheep. People at each exhibit will describe them and answer questions," said Robert Harris, chairman of the event.

If the weather is good the event will be held just north of Thompson Library. If it rains it will be held inside the old University horse barn, according to Harris.

Mayor Leahy Will Not Seek Re-Election In '72

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy announced Friday that he will not seek re-election in 1972.

At a news conference, the first-term Democratic mayor said he believes the next 18 months will be "crucial" for Omaha, and wants to be able to make necessary decisions without being accused of seeking political gain.

Leahy said he hopes by making an announcement early, he will be better able to pursue goals for the city and said the decisions should be made without regard for politics.

The Omaha World-Herald has reported that Leahy might be a candidate for lieutenant governor, with an eye to moving up to governor in 1976 if Gov. J. James Exon challenges Republican Sen. Roman Hruska. This would assume that Exon wins a second term in 1974.

The mayor's salary is $22,500, the lieutenant governor's is $7,500.

Enrollment At Wesleyan Down 3.8%

Fall enrollment at Nebraska Wesleyan University stands at 1,177 down 47 or 3.8% from last fall, NWU Registrar Irene Wiegiers said Friday.

But Mrs. Wiegiers said the rate of decrease was the smallest in two years.

This year's enrollment includes 404 new students — freshmen and transfers — an increase of eight from last year's new student figure.

Some 73.5% of the students are Nebraskans, while Iowa, Illinois and Colorado account for another 16%. Thirty other states and seven foreign countries are also represented.

Mrs. Wiegiers said 5.3% of the students indicate a religious preference for United Methodism, while 10.5% are Presbyterians, 8.5% are Roman Catholics.

Senior Honored

University of Nebraska-Lincoln senior Mrs. Jane Shepard of Lincoln has been awarded a plaque for outstanding achievement as a student in home economics and journalism by the Nebraska members of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors.

Mrs. Shepard is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Musselman of Omaha.

Henry Denies Law Violation

Omaha (AP) — The head of First National Bank of Omaha's credit card system has denied a charge that the bank violated Iowa and Nebraska interest-rate laws in its credit card operations.

An Iowa City, Iowa, man has filed three suits in U.S. District Court in Des Moines contending that interest charged by Omaha's First National Bank and First National Bank of Chicago for Bank-Americard service violates Iowa and Nebraska laws.

J. William Henry, manager of credit card operations for the Omaha bank, said bank officials and its counsel "feel satisfied that no violation exists."

Sen. Batchelder To Be Candidate For Regents Post

Omaha (AP) — Former state Sen. Clifton Batchelder announced Friday he will be a candidate for the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

He said he wants to "restore control of the university to the regents and the people of Nebraska who pay the bill."

His decision was ignited by recent news reports of an upcoming four-day conference at the Lincoln campus on human sexuality.

Batchelder, who was defeated by a narrow margin in the primary campaign for Republican candidate for governor by incumbent Norbert Tiemann, said he doubted that the conference could be held "without at least the tacit approval of the regents and the administration of the university."

Batchelder also said that while he was on the Legislative Budget Committee he saw that "it was obvious the regents rubber-stamped every recommendation of the university administration."

Lincoln's Unemployment Rate Is Down Slightly In August

The unemployment rate for the Lincoln area dropped slightly in August, according to a report from the State Labor Department's Employment Division.

The rate reported for August was 3.1%, down from the 3.6% rate reported in July, but up from the 2.7% rate reported in August, 1970.

Employment categories showing the largest gains were construction, with a gain of 200 workers, and manufacturing, with a gain of 150 workers.

Agriculture showed a drop of 700 workers and nonagricultural dropped 100 workers. However, the total work force for the Lincoln area dropped

1,250, according to the report. "The immediate outlook is still promising for this area," the report said.

Employment in education was expected to rise in September with the opening of schools and, with the weather still mild, employment in construction is "going to continue at a brisk pace," the report said.

The Cornhusker football team also adds to the favorable employment picture, according to the report.

"Services and retail trade should increase during the fall football season with the great number of fans coming into the area."

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The amazing thing about the current trend of farm prices is not that it is adverse to agriculture, but rather, that it should surprise anyone. Reports indicate that there is concern within the administration in Washington about the price situation today in agriculture.

Thus, what is happening—lower prices on goods produced and higher prices on the cost items of production—is not what the administration bargained for. Well, you just wonder now and then how stupid some people can be.

The hot-shots in Washington are supposed to be statesmen, men who know just about all there is to know about things. If there is an answer to something, these fellows are supposed to have it.

So, in the recent price freeze, the administration exempted raw farm products, with the idea that this would hold up the price farmers received for their goods. In blunt terms, any idiot might have known it wouldn't work. It wouldn't work for one simple reason—farm prices are determined in the retail market place.

And in the retail market place, prices of foodstuffs were frozen. This meant the grocer could charge no more for his products than he had been charging.

Thus, the grocer could pay no more for what he bought at wholesale because he couldn't pass the increase on at retail. The wholesaler could pay no more to the processor because he could not pass on the increase to the retailer. The processor could pay no more to the farmer or miller because he could not pass on any increase to the wholesaler.

Thus, no one could pay any more to the farmer for what he was buying than he was paying before. In the meantime, other costs still went up or at least stayed steady. This meant a heavy pressure all the way from the retailer back to the farmer for lower farm prices, not higher prices.

And here is where the stupidity comes in. The one place where the seller has nothing to say about things is on the farm. From the farmer on, the buyer and seller have a give-and-take relationship, because of historic precedent, because of economic structures and because of market conditions.

But there is no give-and-take between the farmer and his buyer. The buyer sets the price and the farmer either takes it or leaves it. He, in effect, cannot leave it but must take it because of the perishable commodity he has and the economic pressures under which he exists.

Thus, any child should have known that the price freeze exemption for raw farm products was of no real value at all and the price freeze at other levels would adversely affect farm product prices. This is exactly what it has done and continues to do, while the cost of items of production goes up.

The same idiocy was applied in the latest Nixon farm program. Farmers were given freedom to plant what they wanted and more of it. In fact, they were forced, for all practical purposes, to plant more by drastic curtailment of set-aside payments.

It was heralded as a new freedom for the farmer and a new opportunity. All it was and is proving to be was freedom to go broke. Farmers planted corn as if it were going to be their last chance.

Many thought the blight would hit in 1971 as it did in 1970, making their crop a premium one if they could avoid the blight. But the blight was hardly seen this year, thanks, among other things, to quick scientific action against it.

Now we face a record production of corn and a surplus that will further depress the price of this product. It has all been plain enough to see since the current crop year and farm program got under way but the administration experts kept telling everyone that it wouldn't happen that way.

While we exercise controls of all kinds to assure a sound and adequate dollar return to business, industry and workers, we look with revulsion at controls that would provide stability for agriculture. That and the lip service we pay to rural development constitutes one of the major fiascos of our time.

Country's Economy

Going To The Dogs

New York — Prices are frozen . . . consumers have more than $62 billion in the bank (or under the mattress) . . . and everybody's standing around on tiptoe, waiting for the day the customers decide to start buying again.

And there ARE signs. Here and there. But it's not exactly what you might call a coast-to-coast spending spree.

Back-to-school shopping gave some businesses a shot-in-the-cash-register. Sales of lumber and hardware and farm tools are up. And there was an encouraging jump of $761 million in installment-credit plans.

Mostly this was for personal loans (to pay the grocery bills?), but economists — ever the optimists — say this shows people are at least willing to spend money again.

However, just to brighten your day, there's one business that's still booming: pet pampering.

Last time anybody attempted to count, they came up with an educated guess that there are around 40 million dogs and 30 million cats in this country—on which their owners spend an ever-loving $3 billion every year.

That's big business—and it's getting bigger. There are over a hundred different cat and dog foods alone to choose from — and last year Americans spent $1 billion doing just that.

Some owners (female, I presume) drape their poodles in mink . . . one shop in New York takes orders for white satin wedding coats for dogs ("his" and "hers;" "hers" has a jeweled collar) . . . and collars of gold and diamonds are selling briskly.

(There's even a widow in New York who feeds her poodle caviar and champagne, nibbles strawberries with him from a breakfast tray . . . and tells everybody about it.)

There are pet vitamins and tonics to keep them healthy. And if that doesn't do the trick, there's a medical and hospitalization plan for dogs. Would you believe "Canine Shield"?

Veterinarians now make as much as people doctors; and pet hospitals are increasing nine times faster than those for their owners.

Dog-walkers and cat-sitters in big cities don't even know there's a recession on . . . and beauty shops for canines are now featuring wigs in decorator colors. In case Pitt doesn't like her comb-out, probably.

A lot of this (including the chauffeured limousines and the $1,000 funerals) are indulgences of the rich, of course. But not all. Almost everybody has to put man's best friend in a kennel sometime or other — and that's one of the fastest-booming services of all.

Temporary residence at a canine country club (one even calls itself "Camelot") starts at $2.50 a day and goes up from there. Way up. To $19.50 a day, if you want to splurge on a "master suite" or "studio apartment." (At these prices, nobody calls them "kennels.")

One canine Conrad Hilton furnishes special diets (sirloin on request), air conditioning, carpeting, beds, height-adjustable food dishes (so Rover won't have to bend down), and "decorator-chosen color motifs." (Aren't dogs color-blind?)

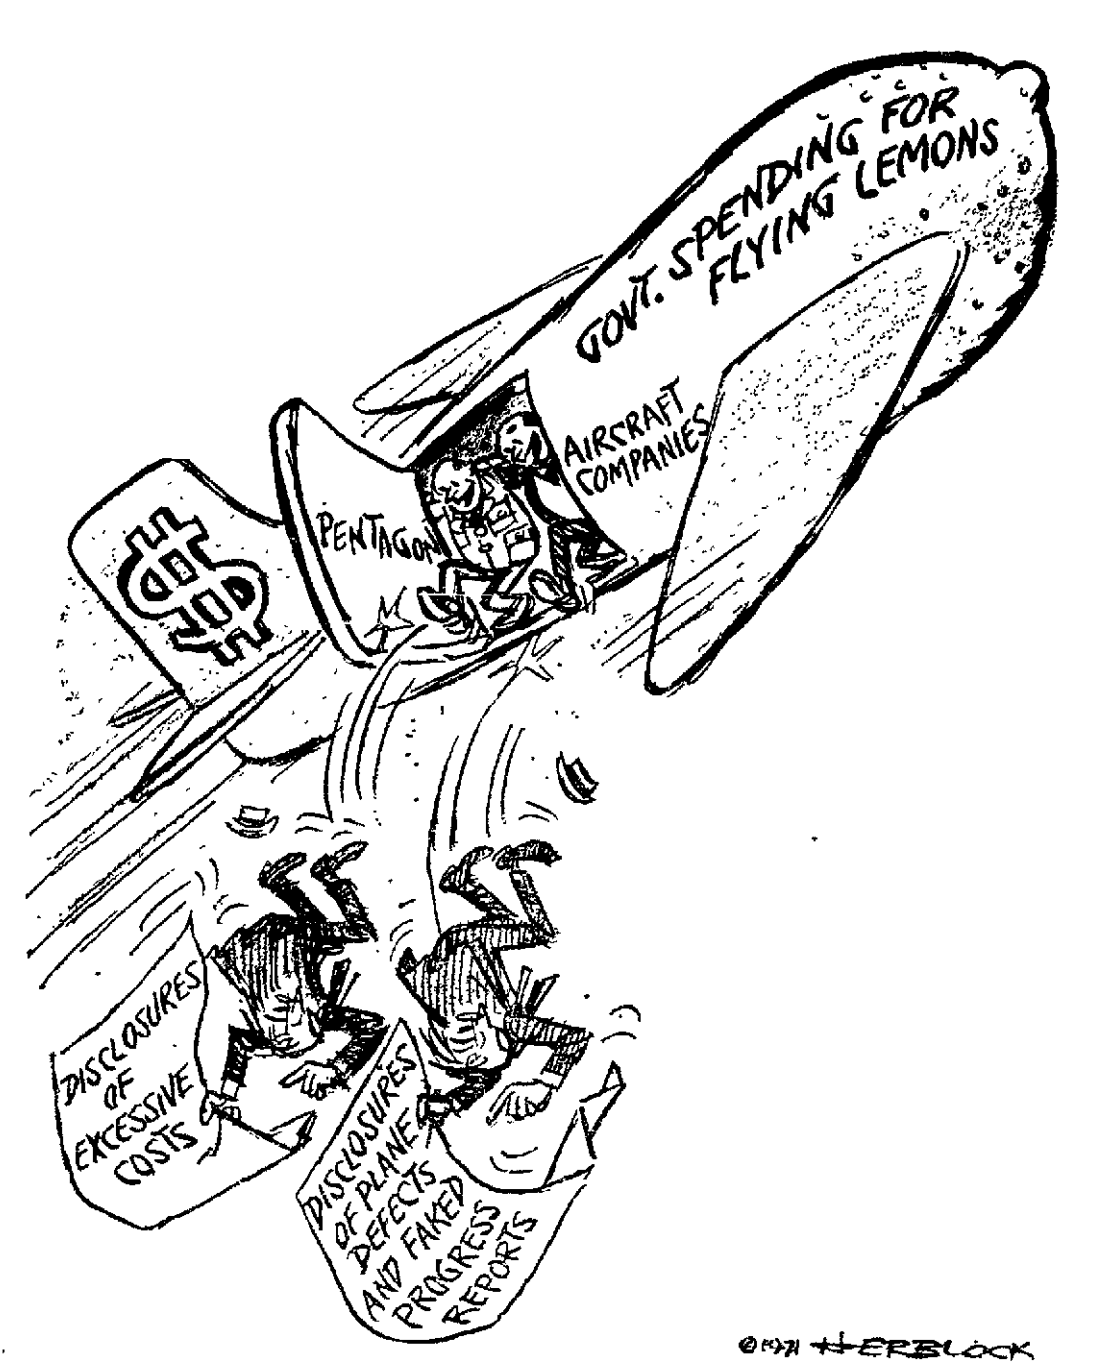

It's filled to capacity year-round. Even the owner admits it's "unbelievable — people are really looking for ways to spend money." And he's willing to help them . . . he's building 30 more "suites."

Remember that next time you get the feeling things are bad all over . . . and getting worse.

'Got To Throw Out A Few People

To Keep Gaining Altitude'

Responsible Position

A responsible position was taken, we think, by State AFL-CIO President Richard Nisley of Omaha in the matter of the endorsement of a proposed national "labor holiday" given by delegates to his organization's state convention.

The convention, which ended in North Platte Wednesday, went on record endorsing a national labor walkout if workers do not receive "fair, just and equitable" treatment in the second phase of President Nixon's economic policy. The convention urged the state AFL-CIO organization to declare a labor holiday if the national organization failed to act, assuming that union members consider the Phase II proposals to be unjust.

That the working man feels he got the short end of the stick under a policy in which economic controls were not applied with an even hand is not the point. It is, rather, that the convention's resolution went beyond an expression of opposition to Nixon economics into an area that will encourage public censure.

Nisley agreed that the walkout endorsement serves a psychological purpose in expressing labor's "unhappiness with the unfairness of the President's first phase and its concern with what will be included in the second phase."

But, he noted, "in my opinion, the position can't be implemented." Labor's response to Phase II will be determined at the national level, not by state organizations, Nisley said, but more important, a number of unions have contractual agreements with employers which would prohibit such a walkout and it would be "irresponsible" not to abide by that commitment.

Nisley has demonstrated again that not only has he been an effective spokesman for labor, but a responsible one as well.

Election Forecast Cloudy

The Senate passed the Mansfield amendment once before, only to have it rebuffed by the House and removed from the draft-extension bill in June by a Senate-House conference. When the President's draft authority was renewed last month, senators thought better of adding the question of his war powers to it. But the anti-war measure was brought up again as an amendment to a military procurement bill and approved by the Senate 57-38 Thursday.

"All we can do is try," said majority leader Mike Mansfield, in viewing the prospects for the up-hill battle his amendment faces now in the House.

The amendment calls for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina by spring if all American prisoners of war are released. If it were a simple declaration against war, the ayes would have it in both houses hands down. But, rightly or wrongly, there is more to it than that. There is the question of limiting the president's power to conduct a war, of presidential leverage in negotiating the prisoners' release and of the residual role the U.S. will play in southeast Asia.

The crystal ball might be cleared somewhat by the presidential election in South Vietnam tomorrow; chances are, however, it will become more cloudy. The debate over what the U.S. could have done—and had the right to do — to insure more than a one-man election is academic now.

On election eve President Thieu threatens to repress his opposition—those with no choice—his opponents are appealing for a boycott of the election and the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese have geared up offensively to embarrass both the South Vietnamese government and the United States.

The only result that can be hoped for — a perverse sentiment, really—is a tremendous showing of popular support for Thieu with a high percentage of voters going to the polls. Any other result now will be truly lamentable.

Muskie Dispels Illusion Of Wishy-Washiness

With Remark About A Black Vice President

WASHINGTON — Sen. Ed Muskie is generally rated the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, but after this ritual concession, the criticism usually begins. He does not have enough appeal to the left, or to the right (depending on the critic); his campaign is too bland; the senator himself is too much a "centrist."

Maybe so, but a pair of recent events tend to unsettle the notion of a wishy-washy Muskie trying to win the nomination by saying nothing. The first of these was the candidate's remarkable statement to a group of blacks in Los Angeles that he believed he would be defeated in 1972 if he chose a black for a vice presidential running-mate.

This might prove to be the biggest political blunder since George Romney's brainwashing, although there are said to be those who regard it as the shrewdest political move since John Kennedy's telegram to Mrs. Martin Luther King in 1960.

Events may well vindicate one of those judgments, but for the moment, the overtly political consequences of this statement are less interesting than the fact that a presidential candidate made it. Even the objective truth of Muskie's remark is a little aside from the point; there is no doubt that he believed it to be true. So, in fact, does virtually every other practicing politician in America today.

So the first thing is that Muskie gets a high mark for candor, which is always good, but particularly so at a time when two successive presidents have been so widely suspected of dissembling that President Nixon has even called public attention to his difficulty in convincing people that he is telling the truth.

In fact, the President's pious complaint that Muskie had "libelled" the American people simply underlined the point. A man whose political strategy is to win the white South and the white suburbs by cutting into the George Wallace vote is standing knee-deep in the credibility gap when he defends the political effectiveness of a black on a national ticket.

Muskie's statement represented more than candor, however. It was an obvious effort to face hard facts, not to take refuge in comforting sophistry. In a society choked with scapegoats, straw men, scare theories and euphemism, a simple willingness to face up to conditions is notable in itself — a fact which speaks volumes about the political climate of the Nixon-Agnew years.

Moreover, a politician who has been around as long as Muskie could not have been under much illusion about the political risks of making such a statement. If making it turns out to be an asset in the long-run — which is by no means clear — it still will be true that it was a gamble to have done so.

These aspects of the statement on blacks were to some extent duplicated in Muskie's later speech to the governor's conference the night after the bloody recapture of the Attica prison. Putting aside a prepared text on revenue-sharing, the senator told the governors that "at this moment there is only one thing to say . . . The Attica tragedy is more stark proof that something is terribly wrong in America."

That is not a line generally recommended to presidential candidates, nor was Muskie's advice to his audience to "ponder how and why we have

They Had A Dream

"I think to myself, should I get off this train this morning and stand on 125th St. cussing out whitey to show I am tough? Or should I go downtown and talk to an executive of General Motors about 2,000 jobs for unemployed Negroes?"

Whitney M. Young Jr. gave voice to that thought once as his train moved through Harlem from his home in New Rochelle, N.Y., but it was a rhetorical question requiring no answer.

A hard-headed realist, Young decried idle rhetoric, not because it was militant but because it produced no tangible gains for his race.

"You can holler, protest, march, picket, demonstrate, but somebody must be able to sit in on the strategy conferences and plot a course," he once said.

He believed in dealing with the decision-makers. As executive director of the National Urban League, Young bargained with three presidents — Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon — and with the heads of giant corporations.

Out of these efforts came concrete results. In a two-year span ending in 1966, Young reported that the league had obtained jobs for 40,000 unemployed Negroes and better jobs for another 8,000.

Classified as a moderate, Young took exception to the label. "There is no such thing as a moderate in civil rights," he said. "The difference is whether they are all rhetoric."

As director of the Urban League, Young forged the social work agency, supported primarily by community chest funds, into an effective tool for equality with branches in 97 cities and 3,700 employees.

Under his leadership, the league trained and placed blacks in jobs, got black apprentices into construction unions, found employment for Vietnam veterans, set up credit counseling services and street academies to salvage dropouts.

A powerful speaker, he took his message to countless Americans, to the board rooms of corporations and to the halls of Congress. Often he spoke bluntly, as he did at a congressional hearing on the poverty program in 1964.

"The alternatives are clear," he testified. "Either help Negroes to become constructive, useful citizens or they will become destructive, disgruntled dependents."

Young was born July 31, 1921 in Lincoln Ridge, Ky., and was graduated from Lincoln Institute, at which his father was president, at the age of 14. He earned his bachelor's degree at Kentucky State College in 1946 and made plans to become a physician. The war changed that.

The Army sent him to Massachusetts Institute of Technology to study engineering and then shipped him to Europe as a private with the 389th Regiment, Anti-Aircraft Artillery group.

Young's experiences in a segregated Army led him to the University of Minnesota where he earned a master's degree in social work in 1947. He worked for the Urban League in St. Paul and Omaha and was dean of Atlanta University's school of social work when appointed executive director of the National Urban League in 1961.

Young served on seven presidential commissions but rejected an offer by President Nixon to serve as his special adviser, explaining that he was "discouraged" at the administration's civil rights program.

Young died in 1971 at the age of 49 while attending a conference in Nigeria. His funeral in New York City drew hundreds of leaders in government and industry.

He was buried in Lexington, Ky., at services attended by the President who eulogized Young for his moderation, adding: "Thousands of men and women in his own race will have a chance, an equal chance, who otherwise might never have had a chance except for what he did."

Filthy Movies

Lincoln, Neb.

Omaha is to be commended for showing concern about indecent exposure and filthy movies. We hear about the rise in crime and in the article on Page 11 of the Sept. 29 Star is an explanation about some of the causes—demands of the Women's Lib and all that goes with it are just one example.

Spiro Agnew speaks the truth in his attacks on the press. I would like to know who is responsible for the irresponsible opinion as expressed on the editorial page of Sept. 29, for this article is a direct protest against those who are attempting to remove one form of pollution—and that is pollution of the mind!

People don't have to resort to filth in order to make a living.

If those dangers can't make a living without baring themselves, then they should get into some other kind of work. Jack Valente's only solution for abolishing indecent movies is for each community to take the matter into its own hands, but what a fight that is! If a community is at all concerned about the welfare of its citizens, it will do all it can to protect them against indecency. If topless dancing is "far less" offensive, the movies must be nauseating. The city of Lincoln should have done long ago what the city government of Omaha is doing.

If we are to remain a free society, we must have order based on a respect for God's Holy Word. So much behavior these days is not God-pleasing. The judiciary favors the accused over and against the law-abiding citizen. Freedom should not mean that sinful living will be protected by law.

A movie review board is a good idea. It is long overdue. If the movie industry cannot make money by filming decent movies, it needs no sympathy.

A newspaper must take much responsibility for the opinions that it represents.

Night Sounds

Lincoln, Neb.

The screech of tires and a near head-on crash at our intersection startled me to wakefulness one night. There followed hot cuss words, then each drove away.

Sleep was slow in returning and suddenly I was aware of the night sounds. Crickets and locust were conspicuous by their absence. The intermittent breeze through the trees outside my window sounded like deep sad sighs, as if Mother Nature were unhappy to face the forthcoming winter. I could feel her loneliness.

Far in the distance came the mournful whistle of a train. I could visualize passengers sprawled in uncomfortable sleep, a mother hushing a fretful baby, newlyweds holding hands even in sleep, wheels racing over the tracks to faraway places, to happiness or heartbreak.

For moments there was complete silence, nothing, peaceful. My thoughts then were how blessed we are, although I grieve for our young men sent to foreign lands to die.

I heard a mousetrap snap in the kitchen. One less night thief, I thought. A motorcycle moved through the darkened streets. A dog suddenly split the quietude and I wondered impatiently why folks don't keep their dogs inside at night.

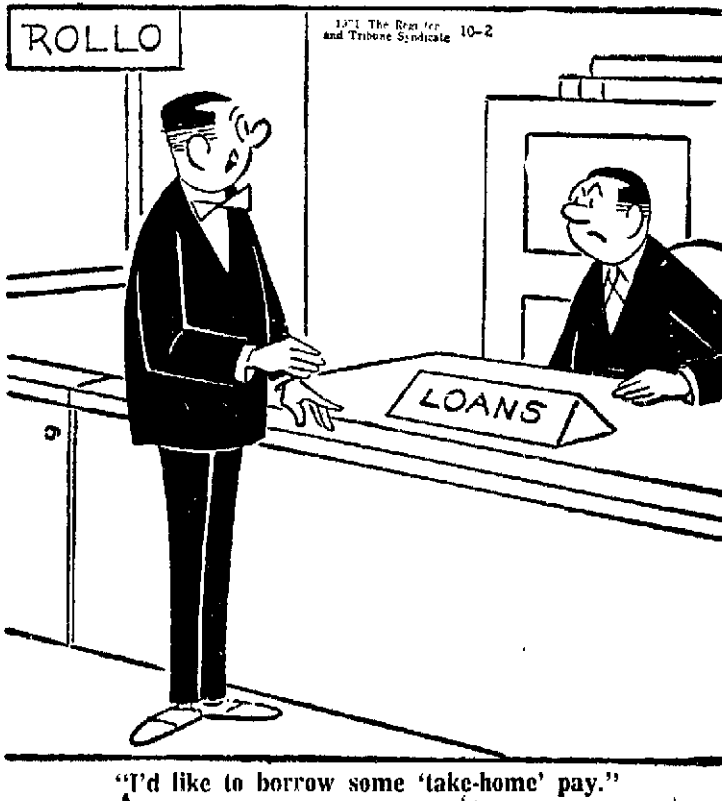

I rolled over, listening to the sighing of the wind through the pines.

Have you ever listened to the night?

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The amazing thing about the current trend of farm prices is not that it is adverse to agriculture, but rather, that it should surprise anyone. Reports indicate that there is concern within the administration in Washington about the price situation today in agriculture.

Thus, what is happening—lower prices on goods produced and higher prices on the cost items of production—is not what the administration bargained for. Well, you just wonder now and then how stupid some people can be.

The hot-shots in Washington are supposed to be statesmen, men who know just about all there is to know about things. If there is an answer to something, these fellows are supposed to have it.

So, in the recent price freeze, the administration exempted raw farm products, with the idea that this would hold up the price farmers received for their goods. In blunt terms, any idiot might have known it wouldn't work. It wouldn't work for one simple reason—farm prices are determined in the retail market place.

And in the retail market place, prices of foodstuffs were frozen. This meant the grocer could charge no more for his products than he had been charging.

Thus, the grocer could pay no more for what he bought at wholesale because he couldn't pass the increase on at retail. The wholesaler could pay no more to the processor because he could not pass on the increase to the retailer. The processor could pay no more to the farmer or miller because he could not pass on any increase to the wholesaler.

Thus, no one could pay any more to the farmer for what he was buying than he was paying before. In the meantime, other costs still went up or at least stayed steady. This meant a heavy pressure all the way from the retailer back to the farmer for lower farm prices, not higher prices.

A powerful speaker, he took his message to countless Americans, to the board rooms of corporations and to the halls of Congress. Often he spoke bluntly, as he did at a congressional hearing on the poverty program in 1964.

"The alternatives are clear," he testified. "Either help Negroes to become constructive, useful citizens or they will become destructive, disgruntled dependents."

Young was born July 31, 1921 in Lincoln Ridge, Ky., and was graduated from Lincoln Institute, at which his father was president, at the age of 14. He earned his bachelor's degree at Kentucky State College in 1946 and made plans to become a physician. The war changed that.

The Army sent him to Massachusetts Institute of Technology to study engineering and then shipped him to Europe as a private with the 369th Regiment, Anti-Aircraft Artillery group.

Young's experiences in a segregated Army led him to the University of Minnesota where he earned a master's degree in social work in 1947. He worked for the Urban League in St. Paul and Omaha and was dean of Atlanta University's school of social work when appointed executive director of the National Urban League in 1961.

Young served on seven presidential commissions but rejected an offer by President Nixon to serve as his special adviser, explaining that he was "discouraged" at the administration's civil rights program.

Young died in 1971 at the age of 49 while attending a conference in Nigeria. His funeral in New York City drew hundreds of leaders in government and industry.

He was buried in Lexington, Ky., at services attended by the President who eulogized Young for his moderation, adding: "Thousands of men and women in his own race will have a chance, an equal chance, who otherwise might never have had a chance except for what he did."

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Filthy Movies

Lincoln, Neb.

Omaha is to be commended for showing concern about indecent exposure and filthy movies. We hear about the rise in crime and in the article on Page 11 of the Sept. 29 Star is an explanation about some of the causes—demands of the Women's Lib and all that goes with it are just one example.

Spiro Agnew speaks the truth in his attacks on the press. I would like to know who is responsible for the irresponsible opinion as expressed on the editorial page of Sept. 29, for this article is a direct protest against those who are attempting to remove one form of pollution—and that is pollution of the mind!

People don't have to resort to filth in order to make a living.

If those dangers can't make a living without baring themselves, then they should get into some other kind of work. Jack Valente's only solution for abolishing indecent movies is for each community to take the matter into its own hands, but what a fight that is.

If a community is at all concerned about the welfare of its citizens, it will do all it can to protect them against indecency. If topless dancing is "far less" offensive, the movies must be nauseating. The city of Lincoln should have done long ago what the city government of Omaha is doing.

If we are to remain a free society, we must have order based on a respect for God's Holy Word. So much behavior these days is not God-pleasing. The judiciary favors the accused over and against the law-abiding citizen. Freedom should not mean that sinful living will be protected by law.

A movie review board is a good idea. It is long overdue. If the movie industry cannot make money by filming decent movies, it needs no sympathy.

A newspaper must take much responsibility for the opinions that it represents.

Night Sounds

Lincoln, Neb.

The screech of tires and a near head-on crash at our intersection startled me to wakefulness one night. There followed hot cuss words, then each drove away.

Sleep was slow in returning and suddenly I was aware of the night sounds. Crickets and locust were conspicuous by their absence. The intermittent breeze through the trees outside my window sounded like deep sad sighs, as if Mother Nature were unhappy to face the forthcoming winter. I could feel her loneliness.

Far in the distance came the mournful whistle of a train. I could visualize passengers sprawled in uncomfortable sleep, a mother hushing a fretful baby, newlyweds holding hands even in sleep, wheels racing over the tracks to faraway places, to happiness or heartbreak.

For moments there was complete silence, nothing, peaceful. My thoughts then were how blessed we are, although I grieve for our young men sent to foreign lands to die.

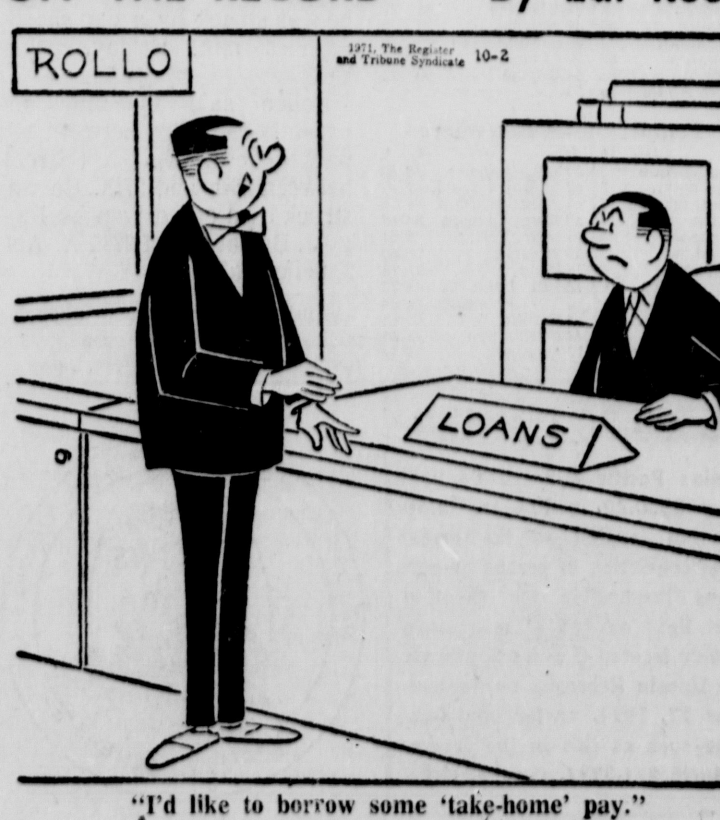

I heard a mousetrap snap in the kitchen. One less night thief, I thought. A motorcycle moved through the darkened streets. A dog suddenly split the quietude and I wondered impatiently why folks don't keep their dogs inside at night.

I rolled over, listening to the sighing of the wind through the pines.

Have you ever listened to the night?

Sewage Treatment Funds Jeopardized

... SHORTCOMINGS CITED

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Some $15.9 million in matching federal funds for secondary sewage treatment plants could be jeopardized unless Nebraska "beefs up" its pollution abatement program.

In a letter to Gov. J. James Exon, Jerome Svore, regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said, "The current level of resource support . . . jeopardizes the assurance that all federal grants for environmental programs will be available in the future."

The reason Svore gave for the program deficiencies were a lack of funding and an inadequate staff.

The letter read, "None of these programs are, in our opinion, proceeding satisfactorily. Shortcomings are numerous and due largely, we now believe, to lack of resources and staff personnel within the Department of Environmental Control."

Fails Requirements

The department, Svore said, is "considerably" short of actual requirements even for an austerity-level operation.

"In our opinion, none of the eleven functions of the DEC can be pursued to the minimum level of effectiveness if all are attempted."

The department currently employs about 30 men.

The second criticism of the state was that the Environmental Control Department, headed by T. A. Filipi, should take over responsibility of the Soil and Water Conservation Commission for comprehensive water quality planning.

Svore said the state should be looking toward "total environmental planning" and that this was best accomplished under the DEC.

At stake in fiscal 1972 is $15.5 million for water pollution control, $403,000 for air pollution control and $23,000 for solid waste management.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Renewable Marriages Suggested

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: "What do you think of renewable marriages, with vows limited to three years at a time? If at the end of three years one or the other decides he wants out, you just call it quits and don't have to face the cost and bitterness of divorce. If you're getting along fine you can renew for another three years. This hits me as a brilliant idea. I'm 67 and had two women maneuver me into marriage. Each time, when the knot was tied, they figured they had me and could treat me like dirt. Seems to me renewable marriages would make couples try specially hard to please each other if every three years they risked being single again."

Answer: It's a provocative idea. But I think it would take all the stability out of marriage. The hitch that makes marriage such a comfortable harness is the fact that it's supposed to be forever. You can overlook a few faults in your wife, and she can overlook a few faults in you, when the costs and complications of divorce are considered. And what about the children? Most couples have children in their first three years of marriage. If vows terminated after three years and had to be renewed before being legally sound again, some shiftless skunks would just walk off and leave Mom with the tots.

Question: "You seem to be anti-labor unions, judging from several digs in past columns. But I can tell you we workers would be in sad shape without unions. When I came here from Italy 40 years ago I had to work 12 hours a day to earn $3. That's right, $3. It was Also, the future of $6.6 million authorized by the last session of the Legislature for construction of secondary sewage treatment plants would be in doubt, since LB1006 was passed in expectation of federal funds.

Rder to iron out the differences between the federal government and the state, a meeting has been scheduled for the beginning of next week between Svore, Exon and Filipi, according to Gary Fisk, deputy EPA regional administrator.

Noting that two similar letters were sent to ex-Gov. Tiemann, Gov. Exon reacted to the letter saying it was part of a bureaucratic maneuver to prod the state into action.

"We will seek assistance," Exon said, "but the ultimate spending decision rests with elected officials, not the bureaucrats."

"We want encouragement from the EPA, but we reject intimidation. We were assured that this was not their intent," Exon said.

Governor 'Amazed'

The governor said he was "amazed" that a state which has provided national leadership in pollution control, should have its programs criticized.

Part of the purpose of the letter, Lincoln area EPA administrator Carl Clopeck said, was to make sure that the state recognizes the size of the program and insures it has a staff to match it.

"It's not just construction," Clopeck said, "although it is the largest chunk, it's air pollution control, solid waste management and training."

"We're not saying it's a bad program; we just think it could be better."

Fisk said there was no deadline by which an accord must be reached since the standards are "flexible." However, national EPA Director William Ruckelshaus will have the final say in the matter.

backbreaking work in a stone quarry and if you got sick there was no sick leave—they just hired someone else. My bother worked on the piers and things were even worse. He once got fired for starting to eat his lunch three minutes before the noon whistle, and they only hired him back when he agreed to work a week without pay. Unions won't stand for abuses like that."

Answer: That's right. Unions came into existence because management abused its privileges. Now the pendulum has swung the other way. Judging from the number of firms in trouble due to excessive labor demands, and featherbedding practices of labor groups, we may soon need unions to protect management from labor's abuses.

Many young persons today know more about astrology than do most astronomers. Some young people know more about astrology than do some old-line astrologers. Indeed, astrology is a subject that has vitality and appeals to young and old. Admittedly, most astronomers wish astrology would go away and hide. Fortunately, however, that is not destined to be the case. Astrology will continue to flourish — and some astronomers are getting ready to climb on the bandwagon.

Committee OKs Pilot Study To Cut Down Flood Damages

The Legislative Interim Study Committee on Water voted 5-1 Friday to introduce a bill to the Legislature which would initiate a pilot study to cut down flood damages. One member abstained.

H. James Owen, of the Water Conservation Commission, said the initial program would cost $25,000 for the one year trial period.

If successful, Owen said, the program could be expanded to 30 flood-prone communities which 55% of the state's population inhabit.

History Film Set

An American Museum of Natural History film, "The Time of Man," will be shown at a meeting of Zero Population Growth at 7:30 p.m. Monday at St. Marks Episcopal Church, 1309 R.

The plan would survey the communities to see what damage occurs at each level of flooding. The hope, Owen said, is to cut down on the $50 million yearly damages through quick reaction and sound planning.

When asked if such a program would duplicate services already provided by Civil Defense and the Corps of Engineers, Owen said it wouldn't.

"In fact," Owen said, "the National Guard and Corps of Engineers have encouraged the program."

The Committee also endorsed an investigation of the feasibility of interbasin transfer of water. The vote was 6-0, with one abstention.

The other proposal the committee agreed to was to increase recreational planning when developing small projects on private land with public funds.

State's Draft Call For Remainder Of Year Is 78

Nebraska has been ordered to provide 78 men as its part of the draft for the remainder of 1971, Selective Service Director Col. Lee Liggett reported Friday.

Nationally, he said, the Pentagon has ordered 10,000 men inducted during the remaining three months of the year.

Nebraska's draft calls will be zero for October, 51, in November and 27 during December, Liggett explained.

He also reported the Pentagon has told local draft boards, including those in Nebraska, not to go higher than No. 125 in lottery numbers for induction calls.

Evening Ceremony

Arrangements of spider chrysanthemums and candelabra provided the background for the wedding of Miss Diane M. Wedgwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wedgwood, and David A. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don D. Young, which took place at Trinity United Methodist Church on Friday evening, Oct. 1. The Rev. Dr. Darrel Berg read the lines of the 7 o'clock ceremony.

Alike, floor-length frocks of chiffon in the chartreuse shade and designed in the Empire mode, were worn by the attendants, including the matron of honor, Mrs. Dennis Graham; Mrs. Michael Kunkke, the bridesmatron; and the bridesmaid, Miss Sue Rose of Hamburg, Iowa. They carried bouquets of chartreuse spider chrysanthemums with streamers in the burgundy tone.

Mike Worster of Omaha served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Douglas Wismer, Christopher Kidwell, Marcos Slava, Burton Folsom, Bill Wahlgren, and Donald Hansen.

The bride appeared in a gown of silk organza and Venise lace applique with seed pearls. The beaded lace motif formed an overlay for the Empire bodice which was styled with a wedding band collar, and was repeated to cuff and cap the sheer Juliet sleeves. The A-line silhouette skirt was given back interest by a lace-edged train of cotton length. A Juliet cap of lace and pearls held in place her train-length veil and matching blushers, and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Mr. Young and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

The bride attended the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Young was graduated from the University of Nebraska where he majored in the fine arts.

Meadow Lane Skyline Terrace Northeast Heights

Historically, the month of October has been marked by a number of memorable events. For example, on Oct. 1, 1807, Robert Fulton sailed his famous steamboat, the Clermont, up the Hudson River; and just over 100 years later, on the same date in 1908, Henry Ford added his name to the list of notables in the field of transportation by unveiling the Model T. Then there was John Brown's Raid into Virginia which took place on Oct. 16, 1859; and we mustn't forget to mention the fact that every year, on Oct. 23, the swallows leave Capistrano.

Of course, there are many lesser-known anniversaries which also occur during the tenth month, and one particular one that we'd like to mention this morning has a very special meaning for Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will observe their 31st wedding anniversary, and, of course, such a special event calls for a celebration.

Arriving in Lincoln in order to be with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson on their anniversary will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Patterson and children, Shelley and Carole, who make their home in Omaha. We understand that the Johnsons and the Pattersons will enjoy dining out Wednesday evening.

For those lucky people who are able to

in the suburban areas

take their vacations at a time other than during the summer months, October provides the perfect opportunity to do a bit of traveling. Planning to do just that during the next two weeks are Skyline Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb will leave Lincoln on Monday for Pennsylvania where they plan to visit family members and a number of friends. Mrs. Lamb tells us that she is especially anxious to visit with her two sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cade and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cranmer, all of whom reside in Pittsburgh.

Incidentally, during their parents' absence, Mr. and Mrs. Lamb's children, Kris, Jonathan and Kimberly, will be in good hands. Arriving in Lincoln tomorrow will be Mr. Lamb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lamb of Lawrence, Kan., who will spend the ensuing two weeks with their grandchildren.

The Northeast Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith will see quite a bit of activity this weekend, and the festivities will begin this evening when Mr. and Mrs. Smith serve as host and hostess for a post-game get-together. The Smiths' guests will be a group of neighborhood friends who will enjoy a buffet supper and an evening of socializing.

The center of attention at the Smith home on Sunday will be Mr. and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Miss Angela Smith, who will be observing her tenth birthday. We understand that a small group of Angele's friends have been invited to her home to help her observe the occasion. On hand to wish the honoree a happy birthday will be Christie Swartz, Lisa Woodward, Kathy Henderson and Melissa Craig.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson have adopted a son, Master Rex Stephen, who made his world debut on Friday, Sept. 24, and arrived at his new home on Wednesday, Sept. 29. His sister is three-year-old Melissa, and the grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Frazer, Mrs. Harriet Anderson, and M. W. Anderson. Rex's mother was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Anderson, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in Boston, is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Jackson will be the guests of honor at a dinner party to be held at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mosher, on Saturday evening, Oct. 2. The 60-some guests will be helping Mr. and Mrs. Jackson to celebrate their 50th anniversary which took place on Friday, Oct. 1.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: "HUNGRY FOR LOVE" and I have a lot in common. But your advice ("teach him") didn't work for me. I've tried. I've worn everything from sexy negligees to nothing at all. All my guy does is turn his head and say, "Move, you're in my way. I can't see the TV." Or, "Better put some clothes on, you're going to catch cold."

He's a regular "touch-me-not." He's ticklish everywhere, and he doesn't like for me to touch him at all. I'm 25 and he's 28.

I am fairly attractive, have kept my shape and I'm neat and well-groomed, but if he comes near me once a month I'm lucky. Divorce is out because we have two small children (both accidents).

When a woman can't change a situation, she had better learn to live with it. And that's what I'm doing. Outside of being no Romeo, he's a good, sober, hard-working man, which is a lot more than some women have.

RESIGNED
DEAR RESIGNED: You're fortunate. People who learn to live with situations they can't change, spare themselves a lot of misery. As long as you remain "resigned" you'll have no problem.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Reluctant Godmother who was hurt when she was told by the infant's mother that she was expected to heap gifts on her "Godchild" on all occasions, reminded me of my own situation.

My husband and I are Godparents to 12 children. We remember them all on their birthdays and Christmas and Easter, but do you think they remember us? Their mothers telephone me to tell me the child has received our card with a check enclosed, but is too "busy" to thank us personally.

I wonder how many Godchildren remember their Godparents on their special days? We have birthdays, anniversaries, and there is Mother's Day and Father's Day. What a joy it would be to receive a card from a Godchild. It wouldn't take much time to jot down a few "X's" and scribble a name.

Giving is a two-way street, you know. But I don't blame the children. Their parents should have taught them better manners.

FORGOTTEN GODMOTHER
DEAR GODMOTHER: Perhaps your letter will remind the guilty. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: About that minister whose marriage had grown cold and he was tempted by another woman in his congregation. There's a woman like that in every congregation. How do I know? My father was a minister.

He was handsome, and the ladies flattered him and chased him and he wasn't the strongest of men, if you know what I mean. When things got too involved, we moved to avoid a scandal. For 25 years our family moved from pastorate to pastorate. We were never able to grow roots anywhere. By the time I was college age my credits were so mixed up from the 14 schools I had attended, I had to look hard to find a college that would accept me.

The pastor-worship thing is as old as churches, Abby. Many a fine clergyman has made a fool of himself over some "helpless" little lady who came to cry on his shoulder.

I wonder how many people know what a preacher's wife has to put up with?

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Assume you're in six spades and West leads a heart. How would you play the hand?

When you first see dummy, you should feel pleased at having reached a slam, even though it is not certain you will make it. The outcome appears to depend on whether the diamonds are divided normally — that is, 3-3 or 4-2.

You win the heart with the ace and lead the A K of diamonds. When both defenders follow suit, you've passed danger point number one of the hand.

Then you play a low diamond, ruffing with the king and hoping to find the suit divided 3-3, which would greatly simplify the play. But East discards a club on the third diamond and you now have a second danger point to surmount.

It would be easy to make a mistake here, for it might seem that all you have to do is lead a trump to force out the ace and in that way make the rest of the tricks.

But if you did so you would discover to your horror that this was not the best way to proceed West would win the spade with the ace, return a diamond for East to ruff, and down the drain would go the slam.

What you must do to prevent this from happening is lead a heart or a club from dummy after the king of spades wins, ruff it, then play the nine of diamonds and trump with dummy's all-important five.

The ace wins the trick and you are now safely home. Return to your hand by ruffing a heart or a club, force out the ace of spades, ruff the return, draw trumps, and chalk up 1,630 points on the score.

NOW Elects Officers

Community and personal consciousness-raising on the issues of women's rights was established as the primary goal for the coming year by the members of the Lincoln Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

To implement the goal, regular meetings will be directed toward the general public and will be informational in nature, according to president-elect Kathryn Braeman.

The next meeting of NOW will be held on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 16, at the Unitarian Church, 63rd and A Sts. Dr. Mary Arnold, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Nebraska will present the program on "Beyond Sexual Stereotypes." The meeting will be free and open to the public.

Evening Ceremony

Arrangements of spider chrysanthemums and candelabra provided the background for the wedding of Miss Diane M. Wedgwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wedgwood, and David A. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don D. Young, which took place at Trinity United Methodist Church on Friday evening, Oct. 1. The Rev. Dr. Darrel Berg read the lines of the 7 o'clock ceremony.

Alike, floor-length frocks of chiffon in the chartreuse shade and designed in the Empire mode, were worn by the attendants, including the matron of honor, Mrs. Dennis Graham; Mrs. Michael Kunke, the bridesmatron; and the bridesmaid, Miss Sue Rose of Hamburg, Iowa. They carried bouquets of chartreuse spider chrysanthemums with streamers in the burgundy tone.

Mike Worster of Omaha served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Douglas Wismer, Christopher Kidwell, Marcos Stava, Burton Folsom, Bill Wahlgren, and Donald Hansen.

The bride appeared in a gown of silk organza and Venice lace appliqued with seed pearls. The beaded lace motif formed an overlay for the Empire bodice which was styled with a wedding band collar, and was repeated to cuff and cap the sheer Juliet sleeves. The A-line silhouette skirt was given back interest by a lace-edged train of cotillion length. A Juliet cap of lace and pearls held in place her train-length veil and matching blushers, and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Mr. Young and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

The bride attended the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Young was graduated from the University of Nebraska where he majored in the fine arts.

Meadow Lane Skyline Terrace Northeast Heights

Historically, the month of October has been marked by a number of memorable events. For example, on Oct. 1, 1807, Robert Fulton sailed his famous steamboat, the Clermont, up the Hudson River; and just over 100 years later, on the same date in 1908, Henry Ford added his name to the list of notables in the field of transportation by unveiling the Model T. Then there was John Brown's Raid into Virginia which took place on Oct. 16, 1859; and we mustn't forget to mention the fact that every year, on Oct. 23, the swallows leave Capistrano.

Of course, there are many lesser-known anniversaries which also occur during the tenth month, and one particular one that we'd like to mention this morning has a very special meaning for Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will observe their 31st wedding anniversary, and, of course, such a special event calls for a celebration.

Arriving in Lincoln in order to be with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson on their anniversary will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Patterson and children, Shelley and Carole, who make their home in Omaha. We understand that the Johnsons and the Pattersons will enjoy dining out Wednesday evening.

in the suburban areas

take their vacations at a time other than during the summer months, October provides the perfect opportunity to do a bit of traveling. Planning to do just that during the next two weeks are Skyline Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb will leave Lincoln on Monday for Pennsylvania where they plan to visit family members and a number of friends. Mrs. Lamb tells us that she is especially anxious to visit with her two sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cade and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cranmer, all of whom reside in Pittsburgh.

Incidentally, during their parents' absence, Mr. and Mrs. Lamb's children, Kris, Jonathan and Kimberly, will be in good hands. Arriving in Lincoln tomorrow will be Mr. Lamb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lamb of Lawrence, Kan., who will spend the ensuing two weeks with their grandchildren.

The Northeast Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith will see quite a bit of activity this weekend, and the festivities will begin this evening when Mr. and Mrs. Smith serve as host and hostess for a post-game get-together. The Smiths' guests will be a group of neighborhood friends who will enjoy a buffet supper and an evening of socializing.

The center of attention at the Smith home on Sunday will be Mr. and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Miss Angela Smith, who will be observing her tenth birthday. We understand that a small group of Angele's friends have been invited to her home to help her observe the occasion. On hand to wish the honoree a happy birthday will be Christie Swartz, Lisa Woodward, Kathy Henderson and Melissa Craig.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson have adopted a son, Master Rex Stephen, who made his world debut on Friday, Sept. 24, and arrived at his new home on Wednesday, Sept. 29. His sister is three-year-old Melissa, and the grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Frazer, Mrs. Harriet Anderson, and M. W. Anderson. Rex's mother was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Anderson, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in Boston, is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Jackson will be the guests of honor at a dinner party to be held at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mosher, on Saturday evening, Oct. 2. The 60-some guests will be helping Mr. and Mrs. Jackson to celebrate their 50th anniversary which took place on Friday, Oct. 1.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: "HUNGRY FOR LOVE" and I have a lot in common. But your advice ("teach him") didn't work for me. I've tried. I've worn everything from sexy negligees to nothing at all. All my guy does is turn his head and say, "Move, you're in my way. I can't see the TV." Or, "Better put some clothes on, you're going to catch cold."

He's a regular "touch-me-not." He's ticklish everywhere, and he doesn't like for me to touch him at all. I'm 25 and he's 28.

I am fairly attractive, have kept my shape and I'm neat and well-groomed, but if he comes near me once a month I'm lucky. Divorce is out because we have two small children (both accidents).

When a woman can't change a situation, she had better learn to live with it. And that's what I'm doing. Outside of being no Romeo, he's a good, sober, hard-working man, which is a lot more than some women have.

RESIGNED

DEAR RESIGNED: You're fortunate. People who learn to live with situations they can't change, spare themselves a lot of misery. As long as you remain "resigned" you'll have no problem.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Reluctant Godmother who was hurt when she was told by the infant's mother that she was expected to heap gifts on her "Godchild" on all occasions, reminded me of my own situation.

My husband and I are Godparents to 12 children. We remember them all on their birthdays and Christmas and Easter, but do you think they remember us? Their mothers telephone me to tell me the child has received our card with a check enclosed, but is too "busy" to thank us personally.

I wonder how many Godchildren remember their Godparents on their special days? We have birthdays, anniversaries, and there is Mother's Day and Father's Day. What a joy it would be to receive a card from a Godchild. It wouldn't take much time to jot down a few "X's" and scribble a name.

Giving is a two-way street, you know. But I don't blame the children. Their parents should have taught them better manners.

FORGOTTEN GODMOTHER: DEAR GODMOTHER: Perhaps your letter will remind the guilty. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: About that minister whose marriage had grown cold and he was tempted by another woman in his congregation. There's a woman like that in every congregation. How do I know? My father was a minister.

He was handsome, and the ladies flattered him and chased him and he wasn't the strongest of men, if you know what I mean. When things got too involved, we moved to avoid a scandal. For 25 years our family moved from pastorate to pastorate. We were never able to grow roots anywhere. By the time I was college age my credits were so mixed up from the 14 schools I had attended, I had to look hard to find a college that would accept me.

The pastor-worship thing is as old as churches, Abby. Many a fine clergyman has made a fool of himself over some "helpless" little lady who came to cry on his shoulder. I wonder how many people know what a preacher's wife has to put up with?

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Assume you're in six spades and West leads a heart. How would you play the hand?

When you first see dummy, you should feel pleased at having reached a slam, even though it is not certain you will make it. The outcome appears to depend on whether the diamonds are divided normally — that is, 3-3 or 4-2.

You win the heart with the ace and lead the A-K of diamonds. When both defenders follow suit, you've passed danger point number one of the hand.

Then you play a low diamond, ruffing with the king and hoping to find the suit divided 3-3, which would greatly simplify the play. But East discards a club on the third diamond and you now have a second danger point to surmount.

It would be easy to make a mistake here, for it might seem that all you have to do is lead a trump to force out the ace and in that way make the rest of the tricks.

But if you did so you would discover to your horror that this was not the best way to proceed. West would win the spade with the ace, return a diamond for East to ruff, and down the drain would go the slam.

What you must do to prevent this from happening is lead a heart or a club from dummy after the king of spades wins, ruff it, then play the nine of diamonds and trump with dummy's all-important five.

The five wins the trick and you are now safely home. Return to your hand by ruffing a heart or a club, force out the ace of spades, ruff the return, draw trumps, and chalk up 1,630 points on the score.

NOW Elects Officers

Community and personal consciousness-raising on the issues of women's rights was established as the primary goal for the coming year by the members of the Lincoln Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

To implement the goal, regular meetings will be directed toward the general public and will be informational in nature, according to president-elect Kathryn Braeman.

The next meeting of NOW will be held on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 16, at the Unitarian Church, 63rd and A Sts. Dr. Mary Arnold, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Nebraska will present the program on "Beyond Sexual Stereotypes." The meeting will be free and open to the public.

Youth-in-Action Explorer Post Studying Careers In Medicine

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

What began decades ago as a Boy Scout program has been transformed in at least one local chapter into an organization for both boys and girls who are interested in medical careers.

And instead of flint and steel at a camp somewhere, the kids nowadays are picking up test tube and beaker in a modern medical laboratory.

"Mainly, I'd like to see what's really involved in being a doctor," said Patty LeBaron, 16-year-old vice president of Explorer Medical Specialty Post 401 sponsored by St. Elizabeth Health Center.

Patty is one of five Lincoln young people who serve as the first elected officers of the post, which was organized last May.

Although still an Explorer organization with ties to the Boy Scouts, the medical post carries few vestiges of what most people know as scouting.

The coed post with 44 members includes about 60% girls, for example. No previous scouting experience is required — all a youngster has to be is 15 to 20 years old and interested in the program.

Other Explorer posts in the Lincoln area patterned on the style include one for kids interested in scuba diving.

The program at St. Elizabeth, according to adviser Arnold Loeckle, is designed "to involve young people in on-site work in the medical field."

Specialties Explained

During the summer months, meeting every two weeks, the youths heard talks on various areas of medical specialties from the professionals themselves — physicians, nurses, technicians.

Soon, they'll be working alongside medical people to "find out what's really involved," Loeckle said.

"It's going to be very interesting to see what everybody does do," said Patty, who said her current interests lean toward pediatrics and orthopedics.

In order to zero in on those interests, Patty will probably start by observing the work of an orthopedic nurse, and then eventually tag along with an orthopedic surgeon.

"Our medical staff has pledged total cooperation," said Loeckle, administrative assistant for fiscal services at the hospital. Also advising the group is Carl Maltas of the St. Elizabeth systems office.

Patty, a high school junior who lives at 1673 Woodview, is joined on the executive committee of the post by John Duncan, president; Debra Olmstead, secretary; John Hachiya, treasurer, and Margaret Stiles, newsletter editor.

Junior Achievement Begins First-Year Operation Here

Junior Achievement, a familiar name in youth activities, began its first year of operation in Lincoln Friday.

Fifteen Junior Achievement (JA) companies have been organized, according to David Starr, director of JA activities in Lincoln. He said about 400 teens would be participating in the program.

The program is described as enabling teen-agers to "learn first-hand the operations and problems of American business enterprises."

In other cities JA'ers have been making money by selling sweatshirts with mottos printed on them. Or making and selling candy. Or selling a service, like advertising.

The teen-agers will work one night a week for two hours a night from the starting date until May. They'll organize their own companies, and at the end of the year will declare a profit or loss to their stockholders.

Director Starr says the teens will "learn by doing" as they go through the activities of corporate enterprise.

They'll have some "experienced hands" around for advice. Business and industrial firms in Lincoln will be furnishing representatives to work with the JA'ers.

The firms are:

First National Bank, Burlington Northern, Square D Co., Peat, Marwick and Mitchell Co., National Bank of Commerce, Lincoln Steel Corporation, Cengas, Miller and Paine, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Bankers Life of Nebraska Insurance Co., United Airlines, Lincoln Equipment Co., Control Data Co., A. C. Nielsen Co., and Security Mutual Insurance Co.

Opening Performance Of 'Don't Drink The Water' Has Fine Scenes

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Woody Allen's "Don't Drink The Water," is a very funny play.

And although the Lincoln Community Playhouse's production of it didn't quite hang together every step of the way Friday night, the scenes that jelled were as fine as can be seen on the Lincoln stage.

The did, in fact, make the show well worth seeing and suggested that with another

Life in and around the embassy and the confusion surrounding efforts to get the touring Jerseyites back home are the vehicles Allen used to spin his humor and take potshots at American institutions.

The major problem with Friday's production seemed to be that players and audience were a bit "distant" too much of the time. The result was that a few laugh-lines went past without much impact early in the play, apparently throwing off some of the timing on the stage.

Perhaps the players just didn't feel at home without the usual public opening — the production was staged for a special group. What would be the usual opening will come on Saturday, instead.

And it was unusually warm in the old building, no doubt bringing longing wishes for completion of the new playhouse next year.

By far the best single scene in the play is one in which Marion Hollander, the touring American wife, tries to get the embassy's resident priest-in-exile out of a straight jacket he was using to try to prove a magical point.

But his magic didn't quite work and efforts of Jan Healey as Mrs. Hollander and Lee Schoonover as Father Drobney proved the most hilarious moment of the evening. It was superb.

In fact, Mrs. Healey and Schoonover gave the strongest performances of the production.

Fine performances were also registered in minor roles by

TTT Project Aids Opening Of Chicano Cultural Centers

With help from the University of Nebraska's TTT project and cooperation from a Mexican-American task force, Chicano Cultural Centers are now operating in Omaha and Scottsbluff and plans call for the opening of a third center in Grand Island.

Dr. Erwin H. Goldenstein, NU Teachers College faculty member who coordinates the entire TTT program, explained that the establishment of several "cultural awareness centers" is but one of a number of TTT objectives in Nebraska.

As its full title suggests — Trainers of Teacher Trainers — TTT seeks to help with the advancement of education by adjusting and expanding the experiences provided for teacher trainees. It also works to update the experience and promote the efficiency of college and high school faculty who train teachers.

"One of our major concerns," Dr. Goldenstein said, "is to help teachers and prospective teachers become more aware of the values of the various cultures that contribute to our total society and to become more sensitive to the problems faced by our ethnic minorities. The establishment of the Chicano Cultural Centers is one step of progress resulting from this concern."

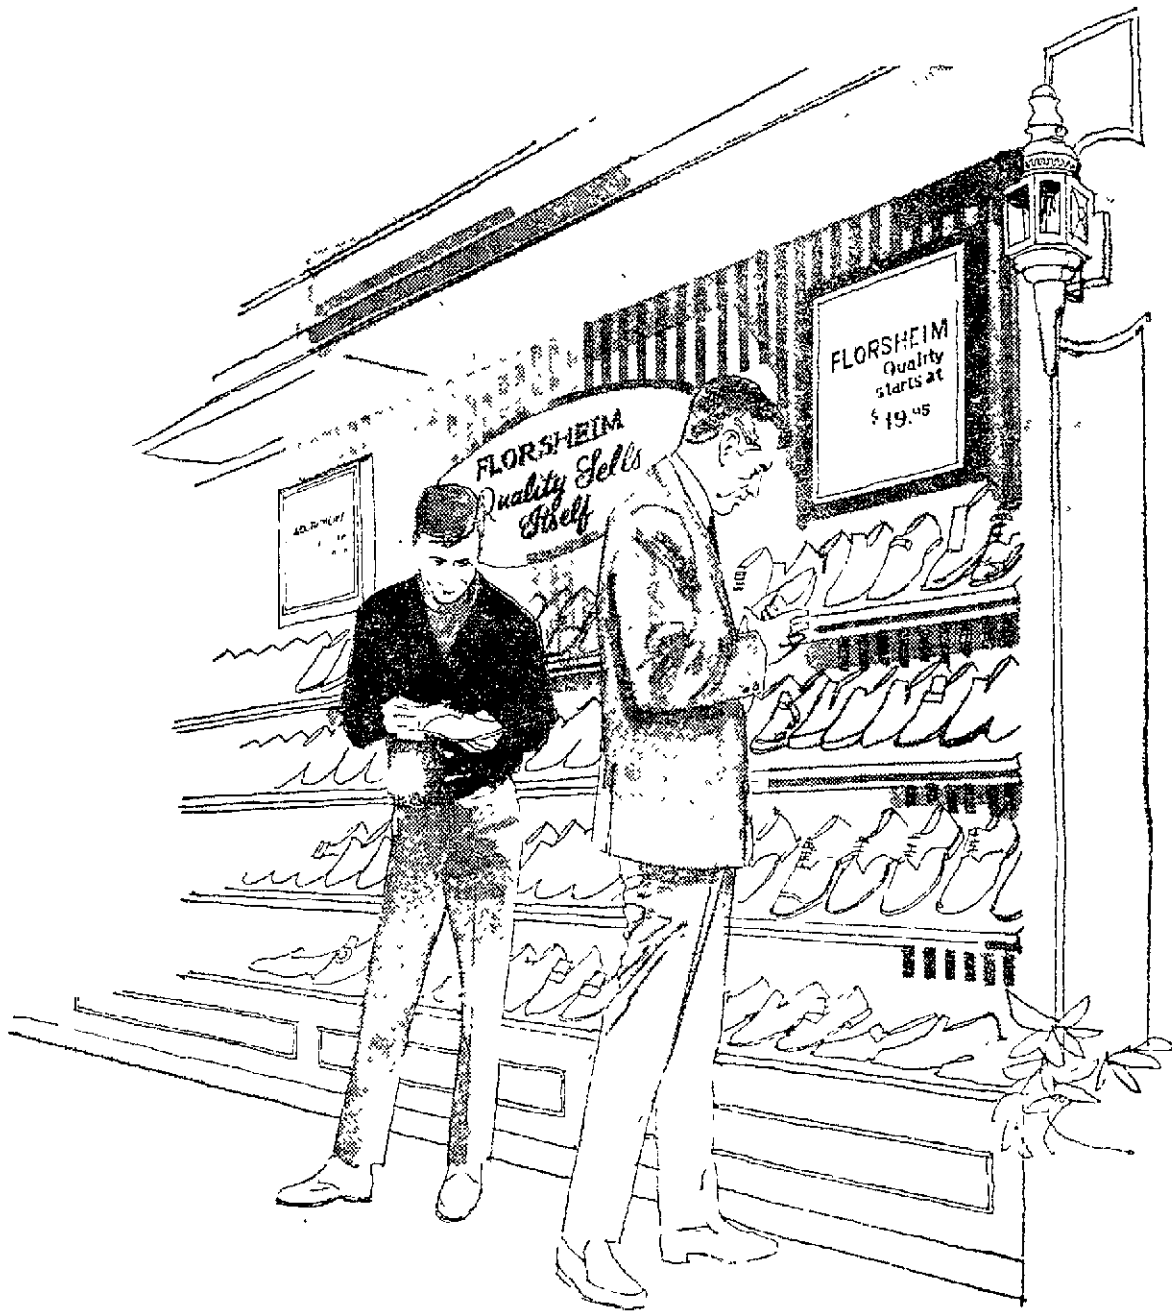

The idea of the Chicano centers, Dr. Goldenstein said, grew out of discussions held last January by TTT people and Nebraska Mexican-American spokesmen.

TTT, a federally-funded program, hired Ralph Grajeda, a Ph.D. candidate at the University, to coordinate its Mexican-American cultural projects. Mexican-American community leaders helped by forming a "task force" to cooperate with TTT's efforts.

Unbeaten NWU To Face Austin

... INVADERS WINLESS

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer
Unbeaten Nebraska Wesleyan will host winless Austin College Saturday night at Magee Stadium starting at 7:30.
However NWU coach Harold Chaffee feels the Kangaroos 0-3 record is deceiving "Austin has played some pretty good football teams and has improved every week," Chaffee said.
The Sherman, Texas team lost the season opener to Harding College of Searcy, Ark., 32-7, the second game to Southwestern at Memphis, 33-14 and last weekend to Northwood of Texas, 7-6.
"From the films we've seen on Austin we feel we're facing the best offensive team with the most speed we've played," Chaffee observed "This is going to be a test for our team and we'll find out how 'real' we are with our 30 record."
"We're going to have to control the football by getting a ground game established in order to win."
Getting a ground game going and keep it going is somewhat dimmed by the fact NWU running backs Lonnie Tapp and Bob Gill will probably miss the game Saturday night. Both have leg injuries and have missed practices this week.
Several other Plainsmen missed some practices this week because of the flu but all are expected to play against Austin.
"We had each player practice at both an offensive and defensive position this week," Chaffee said. "We did this so we'll have depth at every position in case someone gets hurt or comes down with the flu."
The Plainsmen will suit up 44 players but the Kangaroos are also thin with only 39 out and making the trip to Lincoln.

Other state college games Saturday include Hastings at Concordia, Dana at Westmar, Midland at Northwestern, Chadron at Kearney, UNO at Wayne, Peru at Southern, S.D., and Fairbury Junior College at Kemper Military Institute.

Blue Moody Before Opener

... FACES ORIOLES' McNALLY

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles begin defense of their world championship Saturday by sending Dave McNally out to pitch against the Oakland A's and Vida Blue — admittedly moody, and possibly tense, on the eve of the American League playoff opener.

The weather forecast called for a 50 per cent chance of rain for the first game of the best-of-five series — to be nationally televised by NBC at 1 p.m., EDT — that will determine the American League's World Series representative.
Blue, the early-season pitching sensation who won 17 games by the All-Star break but only seven thereafter, was the chief topic of discussion in both dressing rooms Friday after the teams were forced to forego batting practice because of a steady rain. The only guy unwilling to discuss Blue was Blue himself.
"Don't start asking questions," Blue said as newsmen surrounded him at his dressing cubicle. "I'm not going to answer them. I'm going to go back to the hotel and sleep."
Asked if there was any specific reason for not answering questions, Blue said sharply "Vida Blue's reasons. Sorry, it's one of my moods."
Blue's mood was taken by some to indicate he may be just a bit tense on the eve of his first playoff series, particularly against a club as tough as the Orioles, who take an 11-game winning streak into their bid for a third straight American League pennant.
But Oakland Manager Dick Williams didn't appear concerned about Blue's blue mood, or the fact he hasn't seemed to be the same southpaw pitcher the second half of the season that he was during a sensational first half in which he was constantly compared with Sandy Koufax.
"I don't think this being his first playoff will have any effect on him after the first pitch," said Williams. "We're not concerned about him — he's beaten Baltimore the two times he pitched against them. We just didn't score many runs for him the last half of the season."
Neither of Baltimore's two leading sluggers — Frank Robinson or Brooks Robinson — was about to suggest that the first half Blue was any different than the second-half Vida Blue.
"Why?" asked Frank. "Would he be different?" Is he pitching right-handed?"
Brooks had more to say, but it added up the same.
—MUST FACE GIANTS—

Bucs Were Rooting For Dodger Victory

San Francisco (AP) — There was an understandably sober reaction in Los Angeles when the San Francisco Giants finally nailed down the National League's elusive West Division championship and the victory wasn't exactly greeted with cheers in Pittsburgh, either.
It was no secret that the Pirates, champions of the East, were rooting for the Dodgers to take the West, and for an entirely selfish reason. They simply play better baseball against Los Angeles than they do against San Francisco.
In 12 meetings with the Giants this season, the Pirates won just three times. Against the Dodgers, on the other hand, Pittsburgh held an 8-4 season edge.
After Fremont tallied its touchdown to open the second quarter, the Knights moved 64 yards to score their only TD.
A flat pass from quarterback Tom Partridge to sophomore

And to make matters worse the Pirates must open the National League best-of-five playoff series against the Giants Saturday at Candlestick Park, a place they consider an absolute house of horrors.
"All you have to do is look at the records and you know we're rooting for," said Pirate star Roberto Clemente last week as the Giants and Dodgers were locked in their life-and-death struggle.
The records show that the Pirates have won just two games and lost 10 against the Giants at Candlestick in the last two seasons.
Both Pirate victories over that stretch were turned in by veteran Steve Blass, so it's no surprise that he will open the playoff series against the Giants. San Francisco will counter with Gaylord Perry, 16-12.
Manager Charlie Fox was dripping champagne in the happy Giant dressing room Thursday night after San Francisco locked up the West on Juan Marichal's 5-1 five-hitter against San Diego. But he was coherent enough to name his rotation for the Pirates.
"It will be Perry Saturday, John Cumberland Sunday and Marichal on Tuesday," said Fox. And the happy little Giant skipper added a word of warning.
"Perry and Marichal have been pitching just wonderfully," he said. "With a couple of breaks, they both could have won 20 games."
Marichal finished with 18 victories, none of them more important than the masterful one he turned in against the Padres to clinch the title.
Perry will be working with three days rest. He went the route Tuesday night, protecting the Giants' one-game lead by beating the Padres 7-1.

If Nebraska and Utah State were to combine the talents of their alumni now on active pro football rosters they could come with a nucleus for a team that might win some NFL contests.

EAST BLASTS LINKS

... Zentic Receives 50-0 Victory

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer
Lee Zentic's five-year wait ended Friday night.
"I've waited five years for this and it was a good way to do it," said the Lincoln East football coach after watching his undefeated and top-rated Spartans trounce Lincoln High, 50-0, at Seacrest Field for the first East win over the Links in five meetings.
The victory boosted the Spartans to their fourth victory while the Links of coach Andy Loehr fell to 2-2.
While the defensive Spartans were limiting the Links to a meager 49 yards, then offensive mates were rolling to 324 total yards and distributing their seven touchdowns to four players.
Tom Bothwell scampered to three scores in the second quarter which saw East stretch a 14-0 first quarter edge into an insurmountable 35-0 halftime cushion. Jack Ball scored on a 25-yard run for the first East score and snared a five-yard pass from quarterback Scott Coppel for another.
In directing the potent East attack, Coppel also ran for one touchdown as Zentic's team allowed the Links just one first down in each half.
An indication of the misfortune that was to befall the Links occurred when a bad snap on a punting situation gave East possession at the Lincoln High 10-yard line with just 1:36 remaining in the first quarter.
Jeff Putman rambled the 10

Unbeaten NWU To Face Austin

... INVADERS WINLESS

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Unbeaten Nebraska Wesleyan will host winless Austin College Saturday night at Magee Stadium starting at 7:30.

However NWU coach Harold Chaffee feels the Kangaroos 0-3 record is deceiving. "Austin has played some pretty good football teams and has improved every week," Chaffee said.

The Sherman, Texas team lost the season opener to Harding College of Searcy, Ark., 32-7, the second game to Southwestern at Memphis, 33-14 and last weekend to Northwood of Texas, 7-6.

"From the films we've seen on Austin we feel we'll be facing the best offensive team with the most speed we've played," Chaffee observed. "This is going to be a test for our team and we'll find out how 'real' we are with our 3-0 record.

"We're going to have to control the football by getting a ground game established in order to win."

Getting a ground game going and keep it going is somewhat dimmed by the fact NWU running backs Lonnie Tapp and Bob Gill will probably miss the game Saturday night. Both have leg injuries and have missed practices this week.

Several other Plainsmen missed some practices this week because of the flu but all are expected to play against Austin.

"We had each player practice at both an offensive and defensive position this week," Chaffee said. "We did this so we'll have depth at every position in case someone gets hurt or comes down with the flu."

The Plainsmen will suit up 44 players but the Kangaroos are also thin with only 39 out and making the trip to Lincoln. Other state college games Saturday include Hastings at Concordia, Dana at Westmar, Midland at Northwestern, Chadron at Kearney, UNO at Wayne, Peru at Southern, S.D., and Fairbury Junior College at Kemper Military Institute.

Blue Moody Before Opener

... FACES ORIOLES' MCNALLY

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles begin defense of their world championship Saturday by sending Dave McNally out to pitch against the Oakland A's and Vida Blue — admittedly moody, and possibly tense, on the eve of the American League playoff opener.

The weather forecast called for a 50 per cent chance of rain for the first game of the best-of-five series — to be nationally televised by NBC at 1 p.m. EDT — that will determine the American League's World Series representative.

Blue, the early-season pitching sensation who won 17 games by the All-Star break but only seven thereafter, was the chief topic of discussion in both dressing rooms Friday after the teams were forced to forego batting practice because of a steady rain. The only guy unwilling to discuss Blue was Blue himself.

"Don't start asking questions," Blue said as newsmen surrounded him at his dressing cubicle. "I'm not going to answer them. I'm going to go back to the hotel and sleep."

Asked if there was any specific reason for not answering questions, Blue said sharply: "Vida Blue's reasons. Sorry, it's one of my moods."

Blue's mood was taken by some to indicate he may be just a bit tense on the eve of his first playoff series, particularly against a club as tough as the Orioles, who take an 11-game winning streak into their bid for a third straight American League pennant.

But Oakland Manager Dick Williams didn't appear concerned about Blue's blue mood, or the fact he hasn't seemed to be the same southpaw pitcher the second half of the season that he was during a sensational first half in which he was constantly compared with Sandy Koufax.

"I don't think this being his first playoff will have any effect on him after the first pitch," said Williams. "We're not concerned about him — he's beaten Baltimore the two times he pitched against them. We just didn't score many runs for him the last half of the season."

Neither of Baltimore's two leading sluggers — Frank Robinson or Brooks Robinson — was about to suggest that the first half Blue was any different than the second-half Vida Blue.

"Why?" asked Frank, "would he be different? Is he pitching right-handed?"

Brooks had more to say, but it added up the same.

EAST BLASTS LINKS

... Zentic Receives 50-0 Victory

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Lee Zentic's five-year wait ended Friday night.

"I've waited five years for this and it was a good way to do it," said the Lincoln East football coach after watching his undefeated and top-rated Spartans trounce Lincoln High, 50-0, at Seacrest Field for the first East win over the Links in five meetings.

The victory boosted the Spartans to their fourth victory while the Links of coach Andy Loehr fell to 2-2.

While the defensive Spartans were limiting the Links to a meager 49 yards, their offensive mates were rolling to 324 total yards and distributing their seven touchdowns to four players.

Tom Bothwell scampered to three scores in the second quarter which saw East stretch a 14-0 first quarter edge into an insurmountable 35-0 halftime cushion. Jack Ball scored on a 25-yard run for the first East score and snared a five-yard pass from quarterback Scott Coppel for another.

In directing the potent East attack, Coppel also ran for one touchdown as Zentic's team allowed the Links just one first down in each half.

An indication of the misfortune that was to befall the Links occurred when a bad snap on a punting situation gave East possession at the Lincoln High 10-yard line with just 1:36 remaining in the first quarter.

Jeff Putman ramblbed the 10 yards for the score that gave East 14-0 on the next play and from then on, it was all East's way.

After Jerry Phillips intercepted a pass from Link quarterback Bob Folsom, Bothwell scooted 21 yards with 9:11 left in the second stanza.

The senior runner then scored on a 30-yard dash around left end and added his final six points on a four-yard jaunt when East recovered the football after kicking off as the Links failed to down the loose football.

Penalties nullified two Lincoln touchdowns as the Links were assessed 66 yards — a point that upset Loehr as much as the inability of the Links to halt the Spartans.

"We didn't do much of anything right tonight," he said, "penalties and mistakes killed us — I think about five of their touchdowns were the result of our mistakes. It was just one of those things."

The Links lost two fumbles, had one pass intercepted and had five bobbled or high snaps on punting attempts.

Zentic, meanwhile, praised his defensive unit which has blanked three of its four foes this season.

"I felt the whole team had a lot of confidence — they really wanted to win this game," he said. "You can't say enough about our defense."

The football ticket crunch at the University of Nebraska is developing a body of legend and anecdote which will be looked back upon with interest if ever the seat supply more nearly equals the demand.

With the Cornhuskers riding the crest of national acclaim, football tickets have become prized possessions—even a kind of status symbol.

And gate-crashing at Memorial Stadium—by scaling the 10-foot south end fence—has caused concern from the Board of Regents on down.

Sit Together Or Else

Classic is the story told in Omaha of two divorce cases in which custody of football tickets was an issue.

In each case, District Judge Rudolph Tesar gave the couple a choice: either use the tickets, which would put the husband and wife antagonists side by side in the stadium, or return the tickets to the university for cash to be divided between the couples.

In both cases, the couples decided to drop the divorce proceedings, at least temporarily, and use the tickets.

Shopping Trip Cheaper

A Lincoln source tells of a friend who wanted to take his wife to one of the early games and who approached the stadium hoping to buy a pair of scalper ducats.

"The first guy with tickets wanted $50 a pair. The next one wanted $60. My friend decided to take his wife shopping instead and spent less than he would have for tickets."

Although it's difficult to separate fact from fable, it's said that a pair of season tickets, normally costing $84 for the seven-game schedule, have gone for as much as $500.

If At First . . .

Authorities estimated 2,000 persons went over the barbed wire-topped fence at the opening Oregon-Nebraska game.

A Lincoln school teacher who asked anonymity said he and a brother, finding scalper tickets too high priced, got in line to go over the chain link fence. He reported a certain camaraderie among fence scalers. "The guy in back would help push the bigger, older ones over."

The teacher made it over only to find himself in the grip of a university policeman, who showed him to an exit. He fell back into line, went over once again and this time was not troubled.

By the next weekend, the university had erected a second fence inside the main fence, so anyone getting over the higher fence found himself in a sort of corral where he could be more easily detained. Sneak-ins have dropped off sharply as a result.

Stadium Expansion Eyed

NU Regents next Friday will receive a report on the feasibility of adding more seating to Memorial Stadium. Additions during the Coach Bob Devaney era already have almost doubled capacity, and the sold out stadium has drawn more than 66,000 for each of 20 consecutive home games.

There's a feeling in some quarters that while the supply of seats ought more nearly to approach demand, the psychology of scarcity is advantageous. As long as seats come even one short of meeting demand, there's a seller's market. Comes the time when even one ticket finds no taker, then the psychology of scarcity is reversed.

—MUST FACE GIANTS—

Bucs Were Rooting For Dodger Victory

San Francisco (AP) — There was an understandably sober reaction in Los Angeles when the San Francisco Giants finally nailed down the National League's elusive West Division championship and the victory wasn't exactly greeted with cheers in Pittsburgh, either.

It was no secret that the Pirates, champions of the East, were rooting for the Dodgers to take the West, and for an entirely selfish reason. They simply play better baseball against Los Angeles than they do against San Francisco.

In 12 meetings with the Giants this season, the Pirates won just three times. Against the Dodgers, on the other hand, Pittsburgh held an 8-4 season edge.

And to make matters worse, the Pirates must open the National League best-of-five playoff series against the Giants Saturday in Candlestick Park, a place they consider an absolute house of horrors.

"All you have to do is look at the records and you know who we're rooting for," said Pirate star Roberto Clemente last week as the Giants and Dodgers were locked in their life-and-death struggle.

The records show that the Pirates have won just two games and lost 10 against the Giants at Candlestick in the last two seasons.

Both Pirate victories over that stretch were turned in by veteran Steve Blass, so it's no surprise that he will open the playoff series against the Giants. San Francisco will counter with Gaylord Perry, 16-12.

Manager Charlie Fox was dripping champagne in the happy Giant dressing room Thursday night after San Francisco locked up the West on Juan Marichal's 5-1 five-hitter against San Diego. But he was coherent enough to name his rotation for the Pirates.

"It will be Perry Saturday, John Cumberland Sunday and Marichal on Tuesday," said Fox. And the happy little Giant skipper added a word of warning:

"Perry and Marichal have been pitching just wonderfully," he said. "With a couple of breaks, they both could have won 20 games."

Marichal finished with 18 victories, none of them more important than the masterful one he turned in against the Padres to clinch the title.

Perry will be working with three days rest. He went the route Tuesday night, protecting the Giants' one-game lead by beating the Padres 7-1.

Pirates Favored By Oddsmakers

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Nevada's legal bookmakers have installed the Pittsburgh Pirates as 6-5 favorites to win the National League pennant and made the Baltimore Orioles a 6-1 1/2 choice to win the American League title.

Pittsburgh got the nod over the San Francisco Giants because of their better physical condition and the Giants' faltering finish.

"You got to go with Pittsburgh because the Giants just staggered in. They are a tired ball club," said Sammy Cohen, operator of the Santa Anita Book on the Las Vegas Strip.

"The Giants are not at full strength with injuries and Pittsburgh has a sound club."

The bookmakers picked Baltimore over the Oakland Athletics on the basis of stronger pitching and better defensive play.

"They got four 20-game winners," said oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder. "That is good enough reason for anybody. Pitching is the name of the game."

Wymore Southern Defense Leads Scoring Effort, 22-0

... CLASS B TECUMSEH BLASTED

By SAM THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Tecumseh — A persistent defense led sixth-ranked Class C Wymore Southern to a 22-0 victory over Class B Tecumseh here Friday night.

Terry Milligan and Scott Mason combined to intercept five Tecumseh passes and chalk up 20 of Southern's 22 points.

"We're not satisfied with our offense yet," said Southern head coach, Jerry Granger

after his team had boosted their season record to 3-1. "Our defense has been our whole game so far."

Granger has also managed to squeeze some good mileage out of his punt return squad, which recorded its third touchdown of the season on an 82-yard third-quarter run back by Mason.

Milligan ran two punts back for scores earlier in the season.

SPEAKING OUT:

Changes Noted In National Drug Market

By STEVEN LEVINE

Due to a paucity of reliable statistical data available on the subject, a paucity that exists for quite obvious reasons, it is not possible to make entirely concrete pronouncements upon the changing nature of the national dope market. The illegal drug exchange has no metering agency to release official profiles of the trade's condition, not even a trade journal in fact.

But from such unofficial sources as there are, one gets the impression that major changes are afoot in the proclivities of the illicit drug consuming public. Certain markets appear to have wholly dried up, while new ones have appeared unexpectedly. Dealers are having to hustle like mad to keep up with their consumers. Changing social and political conditions seem to have hit the dope industry about as hard as any other.

Up until 1965 or so, about the only real demand for drugs was among oppressed non-white urban dwellers, whose tastes, with the help of Mafia-government collusion, more or less came to run to heroin and some stimulants. Marijuana has enjoyed a limited vogue in different circles since the 20's.

But after 1965 matters became more complicated. Extensive national publicity, advertising in effect, was given to the use of members of the university community, from whence a general diffusion of alphabet drugs, LSD, DMT, STP and grass and hash spread among middle class young people. Over a period of time a pattern was established, showing grass to be in general usage among students et al, with psychedelics popular for short term use with a smaller group, and heroin, amphetamines and barbiturates remaining pretty much the property of depressed economic groups.

Well, all that's done now.

Sudden Upswing

About three years back there was a sudden upswing in the use of stimulants (generally referred to in hip circles as "speed") by white, prosperous members of the psychedelic movement, particularly those under 21. There was a great speed scare, and hip communities, ever ready to meet the psychic threat, were all areel with consternation over the growing numbers of "speed freaks", haunting hip neighborhoods, acting paranoid and pulling rip-offs and giving everybody a bad time. As mysteriously as it had arrived, the speed craze departed and all those legions of meth monsters somehow disappeared. If one had been watching closely, one would have picked up a hint of upcoming developments.

Superficially, an obvious change in the drug scene has been a decline in the use of marijuana, that is, less a decline in use than in availability. Last year's harvest was disappointing, and a few big importers have run into serious legal difficulties. As a result, prices are up to $15 an ounce for B-grade domestic and it takes some hustling to get that.

STEVEN LEVINE

Far more startling is the almost total disappearance of psychedelics, the mainstay of the hip pharmacopeia.

In part, again, there are technical problems involved. To wit: Psychedelics must be manufactured, secretly at that, which is a lot of trouble. A number of underground labs have been busted, and the capital loss in equipment and specialized personnel has put an insupportable strain on existing supplies, again raising prices and causing the merchandise to be ever less consistent in quality.

Difficult To Turn

Still, I am told, even if large quantities of good psychedelics were to be had, they would be difficult to turn over at this point. Beyond the pragmatic reservations psychedelics buyers have reason to entertain, there is a decline in interest in that kind of high.

What young people are buying is revealing.

As Newsweek, Rolling Stone and New York have recently observed, the prestige drug these days is cocaine. Cocaine is an ancient, fantastically expensive, highly romantic stimulant. It induces feelings of confidence and euphoria, and it is selling out at $50 a gram, which is like $1,000 an ounce with the bulk discount. Also doing well are seconal, percodan, dilaudid, methadone and nembutal, all depressants and pain killers.

Returning after an absence are methamphetamine and particularly Ritalin, stimulants.

Spreading to ghastly proportions in the ghetto is heroin, which has not proved to be the threat with white kids that the CIA hoped it would be.

Tastes Well Defined

What all this means is that there are now drug consumers whose tastes are pretty well defined.

At the outset, those who used psychedelics were those committed to paths of intense self-development. However, as the hip type grew to massive proportions, great hordes of kids with a quite different interest got into drugs. Younger and much unhappier, they wanted to get high, preferably without identifying themselves with the social categories whose members relied upon the conventional highs. Thus, they tried psychedelics, which are a lousy high by any definition.

For a long time many people deceived themselves that that was what they wanted. Contacts with other, more constant highs, and a backlog of painful collective experience gradually destroyed the myth, however. Around 1968 psychedelic rock went out and blues came in as young people became blues people, turning to ups, downs and juice — and, of course, grass.

There has been a general owning up to the crucial circumstance of living in America. This is the last environment imaginable in which to trip. Neither the individuals nor the setting are conducive to good tripping.

The alternative is to go for feeling good, by means of anesthesia. While the anesthetic tends now to be chosen with some care, only a few white kids are yet hurting badly enough to do more than jump in and out of smack (a more feasible course than was originally supposed), the basic motivation is obvious enough.

Answers to questions that have been asked about Lincoln Memorial Park's GARDEN MAUSOLEUM

Why a Garden Mausoleum?

Many families in the Lincoln area have expressed a preference for the peace of mind that comes from knowing their departed loved ones will rest securely in the permanent protection of clean, dry chambers, or crypts, as if sleeping in the confines of an immaculately kept room. For that reason, Lincoln Memorial Park has expanded its facilities to provide the most beautiful mausoleum complex in the Middle West.

Is mausoleum entombment more expensive?

Considering the savings involved in not having to buy a cemetery lot, an interment vault, or monuments, plus paying for other expenses such as preparation of graves, the cost of mausoleum entombment compares favorably to that of ground burial—particularly now, while pre-construction discounts are available.

Can I exchange property I own at Lincoln Memorial Park for mausoleum crypts?

Yes. Where present property owners wish to exchange their lots and bronze memorials for mausoleum crypts, arrangements can be made for an equitable exchange. Many families have been taking advantage of this opportunity.

May a loved one interred elsewhere be moved to the mausoleum?

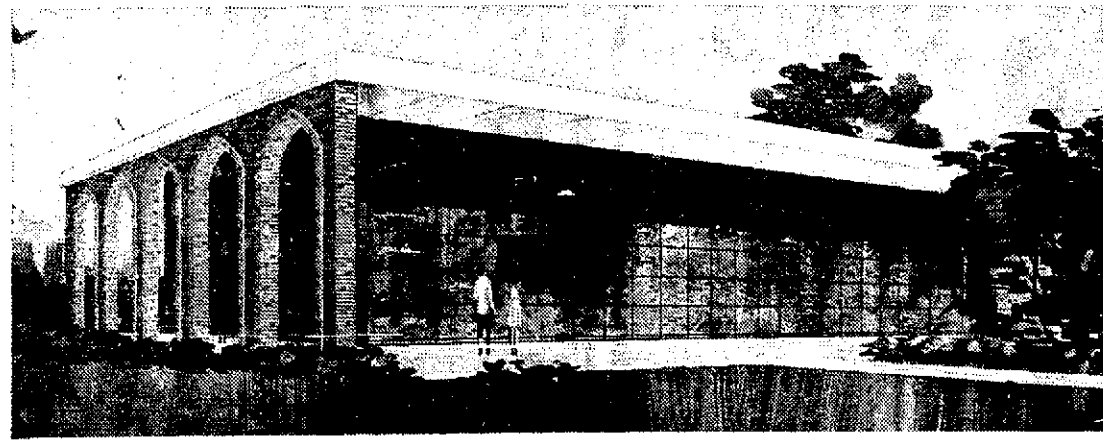

Yes. It's being done, both by families whose departed loved ones have been interred at Lincoln Memorial Park and at other cemeteries.

Is provision made for perpetual care?

Yes. Perpetual Care Funds at Lincoln Memorial Park are being expanded to provide for maintenance of the Garden Mausoleum forever.

Why make plans now?

Changes Noted In National Drug Market

By STEVEN LEVINE

Due to a paucity of reliable statistical data available on the subject, a paucity that exists for quite obvious reasons, it is not possible to make entirely concrete pronouncements upon the changing nature of the national dope market. The illegal drug exchange has no metering agency to release official profiles of the trade's condition, not even a trade journal in fact.

But from such unofficial sources as there are, one gets the impression that major changes are afoot in the proclivities of the illicit drug consuming public. Certain markets appear to have wholly dried up, while new ones have appeared unexpectedly. Dealers are having to hustle like mad to keep up with their consumers. Changing social and political conditions seem to have hit the dope industry about as hard as any other.

Up until 1965 or so, about the only real demand for drugs was among oppressed non-white urban dwellers, whose tastes, with the help of Mafia-government collusion, more or less came to run to heroin and some stimulants. Marijuana has enjoyed a limited vogue in different circles since the 20's.

But after 1965 matters became more complicated. Extensive national publicity, advertising in effect, was given to the use of members of the university community, from whence a general diffusion of alphabet drugs, LSD, DMT, STP and grass and hash spread among middle class young people. Over a period of time a pattern was established, showing grass to be in general usage among students et al, with psychedelics popular for short term use with a smaller group, and heroin, amphetamines and barbiturates remaining pretty much the property of depressed economic groups.

Well, all that's done now.

Sudden Upswing

About three years back there was a sudden upswing in the use of stimulants (generally referred to in hip circles as "speed") by white, prosperous members of the psychedelic movement, particularly those under 21. There was a great speed scare, and hip communities, ever ready to meet the psychic threat, were all a-reel with consternation over the growing numbers of "speed freaks", haunting hip neighborhoods, acting paranoid and pulling rip-offs and giving everybody a bad time. As mysteriously as it had arrived, the speed craze departed and all those legions of meth monsters somehow disappeared. If one had been watching closely, one would have picked up a hint of upcoming developments.

Superficially, an obvious change in the drug scene has been a decline in the use of marijuana, that is, less a decline in use than in availability. Last year's harvest was disappointing, and a few big importers have run into serious legal difficulties. As a result, prices are up to $15 an ounce for B-grade domestic and it takes some hustling to get that.

Far more startling is the almost total disappearance of psychedelics, the mainstay of the hip pharmacopoeia.

In part, again, there are technical problems involved. To wit: Psychedelics must be manufactured, secretly at that, which is a lot of trouble. A number of underground labs have been busted, and the capital loss in equipment and specialized personnel has put an insupportable strain on existing supplies, again raising prices and causing the merchandise to be ever less consistent in quality.

Difficult To Turn
Still, I am told, even if large quantities of good psychedelics were to be had, they would be difficult to turn over at this point. Beyond the pragmatic reservations psychedelics buyers have reason to entertain, there is a decline in interest in that kind of high.

What young people are buying is revealing.

As Newsweek, Rolling Stone and New York have recently observed, the prestige drug these days is cocaine. Cocaine is an ancient, fantastically expensive, highly romantic stimulant. It induces feelings of confidence and euphoria, and it is selling out at $50 a gram, which is like $1,000 an ounce with the bulk discount. Also doing well are second, percoden, dilaudid, methadone and nembutal, all depressants and pain killers.

Returning after an absence are methamphetamine and particularly Ritalin, stimulants.

Spreading to ghastly proportions in the ghetto is heroin, which has not proved to be the threat with white kids that the CIA hoped it would be.

Tastes Well Defined
What all this means is that there are now drug consumers whose tastes are pretty well defined.

At the outset, those who used psychedelics were those committed to paths of intense self-development. However, as the hip type grew to massive proportions, great hordes of kids with a quite different interest got into drugs. Younger and much unhappier, they wanted to get high, preferably without identifying themselves with the social categories whose members relied upon the conventional highs. Thus, they tried psychedelics, which are a lousy high by any definition.

For a long time many people deceived themselves that that was what they wanted. Contacts with other, more constant highs, and a backlog of painful collective experience gradually destroyed the myth, however. Around 1968 psychedelic rock went out and blues came in as young people became blues people, turning to ups, downs and juice — and, of course, grass.

There has been a general owning up to the crucial circumstance of living in America. This is the last environment imaginable in which to trip. Neither the individuals nor the setting are conducive to good tripping.

The alternative is to go for feeling good, by means of an anesthesia. While the anesthetic tends now to be chosen with some care, only a few white kids are yet hurting badly enough to do more than jump in and out of smack (a more feasible course than was originally supposed), the basic motivation is obvious enough. As things get worse all around, the demands will be ever more predictable, no matter what punitive measures are invoked to alter the character of the market at either the point of supply or the origin of demand.

Answers to questions that have been asked about Lincoln Memorial Park's

GARDEN MAUSOLEUM

Why a Garden Mausoleum?

Many families in the Lincoln area have expressed a preference for the peace of mind that comes from knowing their departed loved ones will rest securely in the permanent protection of clean, dry chambers, or crypts, as if sleeping in the confines of an immaculately kept room. For that reason, Lincoln Memorial Park has expanded its facilities to provide the most beautiful mausoleum complex in the Middle West.

Is mausoleum entombment more expensive?

Considering the savings involved in not having to buy a cemetery lot, an interment vault, or monuments, plus paying for other expenses such as preparation of graves, the cost of mausoleum entombment compares favorably to that of ground burial — particularly now, while pre-construction discounts are available.

Can I exchange property I own at Lincoln Memorial Park for mausoleum crypts?

Yes. Where present property owners wish to exchange their lots and bronze memorials for mausoleum crypts, arrangements can be made for an equitable exchange. Many families have been taking advantage of this opportunity.

May a loved one interred elsewhere be moved to the mausoleum?

Yes. It's being done, both by families whose departed loved ones have been interred at Lincoln Memorial Park and at other cemeteries.

Is provision made for perpetual care?

Yes. Perpetual Care Funds at Lincoln Memorial Park are being expanded to provide for maintenance of the Garden Mausoleum forever.

Why make plans now?

By reserving space for your family in our Garden Mausoleum now, you can select from choice locations—take advantage of special pre-construction discounts—and, be spared the mental anguish and expense of this inevitable obligation at time of need. Monthly terms available at no interest.

Van Pelt Says No-Fault Auto Insurance Legislation Will Be Introduced

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer
State Insurance Director Sam Van Pelt said Friday that legislation for some form of "no fault" automobile insurance coverage will be introduced before the 1972 Legislature.

Van Pelt made the prediction before the Nebraska Bar Association's annual meeting during debate with Craig Spangenberg, a nationally-known attorney from Cleveland, Ohio, over the pros and cons of no-fault auto insurance.

Nebraska is one of 11 states in which no fault plans have yet to be proposed, Van Pelt said, noting that both a legislative committee and an insurance department committee are currently studying various plans.

Pressure Growing
Pressure is growing in the various states for no-fault plans, he said, and the Nixon Administration considers no-fault auto insurance a "major domestic issue."

"The most compelling argument against the present tort liability system of auto insurance," Van Pelt said, "is that it doesn't return a very high percentage of the premium dollar to the accident victim. Probably only 40 to 45 cents on the dollar."

Other criticisms cited by Van Pelt were "slowness and inefficiency" of the tort system in settling claims and "unequal compensation to victims."

"Old Shell Game"
Spangenberg, however, charged that the no-fault plans now in effect are like the "old shell game."

"Accident victims recover nearly 60% of the premium dollar," the trial attorney said in citing a 10-year study. "The present no-fault plans reduce costs only by reducing benefits."

As to the charge that trial attorneys are fighting no-fault insurance because of the potential loss of fees, Spangenberg said, "Trial attorneys average only 6.2% of the premium dollar, according to a major study, as compared with the 18% paid insurance agents for writing the policy."

This country was founded "on the rights of the individual," he said, but supporters of no-fault plans want to "substitute the computer tape for the jury system."

He said first-party medical coverage for drivers and passengers should be mandatory, but the jury system for recovery of damage for permanent and partial disability should never be left to a pre-determined formula or computer.

"No fault insurance will patch him up (the victim) but will do little else," he said.

Person Heads Order Of Coif

Kent Person of Holdrege was elected president of the Nebraska Chapter of Order of the Coif at the group's annual meeting Friday.

Judge Donald Lay of the Eighth Federal Circuit Court of Appeals told the group that because of streamlined procedures and screening processes in the federal system, the Circuit Court is handling 600 cases annually as compared with a 300 case average five years ago "without sacrificing the quality."

Crackdown On Price Hikes Urged

... Proxmire Sees Need For More Specific Legislation

Washington (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wisc., stressing the White House may need new legislation before the end of the present wage-price freeze, called Friday for economy-wide guidelines aimed at cracking down hard on price increases.

Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, told a news conference that legislation already on the books may limit President Nixon's freedom of action.

Proxmire referred to a law which gives the President authority to set wage-price guidelines only when they have increased at a rate "which is grossly disproportionate to the rate at which prices or wages have increased in the economy generally."

More Specifics Urged

Proxmire said Nixon's present authority, as it stands, is either excessive or insufficient and should be spelled out more specifically by Congress.

He predicted unemployment will remain at or near its present level unless the President stimulates the economy more than he has proposed and by becoming tougher on prices.

"In my view, the heart of this program is that it must crack down hard on price increases," Proxmire said.

He proposed the establishment of a wage-price or economic stabilization board but said the composition of its members is relatively unimportant.

Confidence Important
"What is important is that labor, management, the consumer and the general public have full confidence in its fairness and integrity," Proxmire said.

He suggested such a board would set over-all policy to administer a ceiling on wage increases to reflect the average productivity gain in the economy plus about one-half of the annual cost of living increase.

He said Congress has a duty to share with the President the shaping of long-term economic policies and needs "to hammer out a far more limited and precise grant of powers based on the experience of the freeze and the problems of Phase 2."

RAILROADER . . . Palme, wife eat retirement cake.

Demise Of Passenger Train Witnessed By Retired Agent

"We used to have passenger trains on all the tracks and now we're down to one train a day for each direction," a retiring Burlington Northern passenger agent noted.

Robert Palme, whose retirement after 28 years' service as passenger agent was effective Friday, said that the most noticeable change in the railroad during that period "was apparent right here in the Lincoln Station."

He said that the arrival and departure board and timetables for those years present a vivid picture of what happened in passenger trains.

When he started with the railroad in 1943, Palme said, there were many trains arriving at the Lincoln Station in the morning, some at noon and at 6 p.m., and another large group at midnight.

He said at one time they had three or four trains per day to Denver, six to Chicago and four different ways to get to Kansas City daily.

Palme said he hadn't had any direct involvement with the new Amtrak system but that he felt, as an individual, it has great possibilities.

If it does provide the added services proposed, Palme said, it should prove very satisfactory in meeting the passenger train traffic need.

"We're booked up until February," Palme said when asked about retirement plans.

He said he and his wife are planning several trips including a trip to the West Indies. "But since we don't have to follow a schedule, our long-range plans are indefinite," he said.

Grand Jury Indicts In San Quentin Case

San Rafael, Calif. (AP) — A Marin County grand jury Friday indicted fugitive attorney Stephen M. Bingham and six San Quentin convicts on murder charges in the Aug. 21 violence at the prison in which George Jackson and five others died.

The indicted inmates include Fleeta Drumgo, one of the two surviving Soledad Brothers.

After listening to 20 hours of testimony from 25 witnesses, the 19-member grand jury returned the indictments against Bingham, 29-year-old grandson of former Connecticut Gov. and Sen. Hiram Bingham; Drumgo, 26; Hugo A. Pinell, 27; John Larry Spain, 22; Louis N. Talamantes, 28; David Johnson, 24 and Willie Tate, 27.

The seven indicted are charged with five counts of murder in the deaths of three prison guards and two white "honored" inmates. They also are charged with conspiracy to commit escape by force of violence, conspiracy to possess a firearm in a prison and conspiracy to kidnap correctional officers.

Jackson Death
The indictment does not change anyone in the death of Jackson, a 29-year-old black revolutionary and author, who authorities say was shot and killed by a guard while running across an open prison courtyard in an abortive escape attempt.

In detailing the alleged conspiracy, the indictment said Bingham gave Jackson a 9mm automatic pistol and clips during a visit shortly before the violence erupted — and that

Jackson used the gun to kill Sgt. Jere P. Graham, 39.

It said the two other guards, Paul Krasenes, 52, and Frank DeLeon, 44, and inmates John Lynn, 29, a convicted murderer, and Ronald L. Kane, 28, serving time for car theft and attempted rape, "were killed by members of the conspiracy."

No Convicts

Among the 25 witnesses testifying before the grand jury were three San Quentin guards injured in the violence. No convicts were called before the panel, which must have 12 votes to indict.

Three of the 19 grand jurors walked out of Thursday night's meeting — Rick Beban, 23, a former student leader at the College of Marin; James Kilby, director of Catholic Social Services for Marin County, and Gerald A. Hawes, a research analyst for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Hawes, 37, said later he is resigning from the panel because of "inequities and injustices perpetrated through the secret indicting process."

"What this grand jury does is not justice but vengeance," said Beban. "This grand jury reflects society which is suffering from racism, paranoia and economic bias."

LEGAL NOTICES

Robert Road from the east line of Highway 101 to the west line of Highway 101.

If a majority of the resident owners of the property directly abutting on the street to be improved in said district shall file with the Village Clerk within twenty days after the first publication of this notice or before the 21 day of October 1971, written objections to the creation of said District or such improvements in said District shall not be made, and the provisions of said Ordinance but the section of said Ordinance creating said District shall be repealed. If such objections are not filed against any District in the time and manner aforesaid, the Chairman and Village Board of Trustees will forthwith cause such work to be done and such improvements to be made and will contract therefor and will levy assessments on the lots and parcels of land abutting on or adjacent to such streets especially benefited thereby in such district in proportion to the such benefits to pay the cost of such improvements.

If any written objections are filed to said Paving District as provided herein, the Chairman and Village Board of Trustees will meet on October 25, 1971 at the Village Hall in said Village at 7:30 o'clock p.m. to consider the sufficiency of such objections.

The date of the first publication of this Notice is October 1, 1971.

BY ORDER OF THE CHAIRMAN AND VILLAGE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF MALCOLM, NEBRASKA
Arthur J. Bowers, Chairman
Dean E. Pillard, Village Clerk

Stalemate Ends On Berlin Pact

Bonn, Germany (AP) — East and West Germany ended their stalemate on the German-language translation of the four-power agreement on Berlin Friday and decided to get on with working out details.

Negotiators Egon Bahr of West Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany met for 4½ hours and agreed to meet again in East Berlin next Wednesday.

Bahr said the breakthrough actually came Thursday, when the two governments signed an accord to improve postal communications between the two German states.

In this, the East Germans recognized the right of the West German Postal Ministry in Bonn to negotiate and sign for West Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

Bahr said the accord met "in content and in spirit" the Berlin agreement signed by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union Sept. 3. It showed there was "no qualitative difference" in the German texts used by the East and West Germans, he added.

Bahr said the East Germans also appeared ready to recognize that Bonn had competence to deal with traffic to and from West Berlin. They had previously sought two separate accords, one dealing with traffic to West Berlin and one with traffic from West Berlin.

Ferguson Wants Positive Action From Sen. Curtis

Democratic senatorial candidate Donald Ferguson of Lincoln Friday challenged Republican Sen. Carl Curtis to "translate his rhetoric into action" regarding his views on the military draft.

Curtis' statements to students at Union College in Lincoln last week were "typical of how Curtis talks but doesn't do," Ferguson said.

Curtis told students he believed the draft should eventually be eliminated, Ferguson noted, but that he voted for its extension because of the Vietnam War.

Ferguson said he believes that the draft should be terminated in favor of an all-volunteer military system.

And, he said, he hopes Curtis will now prepare legislation to introduce to the Senate which will call for the establishment of a volunteer military and set the conditions for its implementation.

Russian Blonde Defector

London (AP) — A stunning Russian blonde entered Britain's spy drama Friday when the government disclosed that KGB officer Oleg Lyalin's secretary defected with him last month.

This development, with its overtones of a Soviet love affair, gave the situation the trappings of a James Bond film.

Husky-voiced Irina Teplakova, 31, asked for and was granted political asylum on the day her boss, Lyalin, defected with, the British say, a dossier of Soviet espionage secrets.

The pair, according to a Home Office spokesman, now are "staying with friends."

This was understood to be an official way of saying they are united at a secret hideout near London under protective British detention. Each is married but the spokesman gave no details on their families.

Crackdown On Price Hikes Urged

... Proxmire Sees Need For More Specific Legislation

Washington (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., stressing the White House may need new legislation before the end of the present wage-price freeze, called Friday for economy-wide guidelines aimed at cracking down hard on price increases.

Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, told a news conference that legislation already on the books may limit President Nixon's freedom of action.

Proxmire referred to a law which gives the President authority to set wage-price guidelines only when they have increased at a rate "which is grossly disproportionate to the rate at which prices or wages have increased in the economy generally."

More Specifics Urged

Proxmire said Nixon's present authority, as it stands, is either excessive or insufficient and should be spelled out more specifically by Congress.

He predicted unemployment will remain at or near its present level unless the President stimulates the economy more than he has proposed and by becoming tougher on prices.

"In my view, the heart of this program is that it must crack down hard on price increases," Proxmire said.

He proposed the establishment of a wage-price or economic stabilization board but said the composition of its members is relatively unimportant.

Confidence Important
"What is important is that labor, management, the consumer and the general public have full confidence in its fairness and integrity," Proxmire said.

He suggested such a board would set over-all policy to administer a ceiling on wage increases to reflect the average productivity gain in the economy plus about one-half of the annual cost of living increase.

He said Congress has a duty to share with the President the shaping of long-term economic policies and needs "to hammer out a far more limited and precise grant of powers based on the experience of the freeze and the problems of Phase 2."

RAILROADER . . . Palme, wife eat retirement cake.

Demise Of Passenger Train Witnessed By Retired Agent

"We used to have passenger trains on all the tracks and now we're down to one train a day for each direction," a retiring Burlington Northern passenger agent noted.

Robert Palme, whose retirement after 28 years' service as passenger agent was effective Friday, said that the most noticeable change in the railroad during that period "was apparent right here in the Lincoln Station."

He said that the arrival and departure board and timetables for those years present a vivid picture of what happened in passenger trains.

When he started with the railroad in 1943, Palme said, there were many trains arriving at the Lincoln Station in the morning, some at noon and at 6 p.m., and another large group at midnight.

He said at one time they had three or four trains per day to Denver, six to Chicago and four different ways to get to Kansas City daily.

Palme said he hadn't had any direct involvement with the new Amtrak system but that he felt, as an individual, it has great possibilities.

If it does provide the added services proposed, Palme said, it should prove very satisfactory in meeting the passenger train traffic need.

"We're booked up until February," Palme said when asked about retirement plans.

He said he and his wife are planning several trips including a trip to the West Indies. "But since we don't have to follow a schedule, our long-range plans are indefinite," he said.

Grand Jury Indicts In San Quentin Case

San Rafael, Calif. (AP) — A Marin County grand jury Friday indicted fugitive attorney Stephen M. Bingham and six San Quentin convicts on murder charges in the Aug. 21 violence at the prison in which George Jackson and five others died.

The indicted inmates include Fleeta Drumgo, one of the two surviving Soledad Brothers.

After listening to 20 hours of testimony from 25 witnesses, the 19-member grand jury returned the indictments against Bingham, 29-year-old grandson of former Connecticut Gov. and Sen. Hiram Bingham; Drumgo, 26; Hugo A. Pinell, 27; John Larry Spain, 22; Louis N. Talamantes, 28; David Johnson, 24 and Willie Tate, 27.

The seven indicted are charged with five counts of murder in the deaths of three prison guards and two white "honored" inmates. They also are charged with conspiracy to commit escape by force of violence, conspiracy to possess a firearm in a prison and conspiracy to kidnap correctional officers.

Jackson Death
The indictment does not change anyone in the death of Jackson, a 29-year-old black revolutionary and author, who authorities say was shot and killed by a guard while running across an open prison courtyard in an abortive escape attempt.

In detailing the alleged conspiracy, the indictment said Bingham gave Jackson a 9mm automatic pistol and clips during a visit shortly before the violence erupted — and that

Jackson used the gun to kill Sgt. Jere P. Graham, 39.

It said the two other guards, Paul Krasenes, 52, and Frank DeLeon, 44, and inmates John Lynn, 29, a convicted murderer, and Ronald L. Kane, 23, serving time for car theft and attempted rape, "were killed by members of the conspiracy."

No Convicts
Among the 25 witnesses testifying before the grand jury were three San Quentin guards injured in the violence. No convicts were called before the panel, which must have 12 votes to indict.

Three of the 19 grand jurors walked out of Thursday night's meeting — Rick Behan, 23, a former student leader at the College of Marin; James Kilty, director of Catholic Social Services for Marin County, and Gerald A. Hawes, a research analyst for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Hawes, 37, said later he is resigning from the panel because of "inequities and injustices perpetrated through the secret indicting process."

"What this grand jury does is not justice but vengeance," said Behan. "This grand jury reflects society which is suffering from racism, paranoia and economic bias."

LEGAL NOTICE VILLAGE OF MALCOLM, NEBRASKA NOTICE OF CREATION OF PAVING DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that Ordinance No. 71 of the Village of Malcolm, Nebraska has been passed, approved and published as provided by law and that said Ordinance created Paving District No. 1 and defines the boundaries thereof and provides for the improvement of certain streets therein by the construction of paving and such other work as may be incidental thereto. The outer boundaries of said district and the streets or parts of streets to be improved in said district are respectively as follows:

DISTRICT NO. 1: The outer boundaries are as follows:
Commencing at the Northeast Corner Lot 14, Block 1, Prairie Hills Addition Replat to the Village of Malcolm, Nebraska; thence west to the Northwest Corner Lot 1, Prairie Hills Addition No. 2; thence south to the Southwest Corner Lot 7, Prairie Hills Addition No. 2; thence southeasterly along the County Road Right-of-Way line to the Southeast Corner Lot 1, Block 1, Prairie Hills Addition; thence north on the east line of Lot 1, 4 and 15 of said Block 1, to a point 40.22 feet north of the Southeast Corner of said Lot 15; thence east to the Southeast Corner Lot 7 said Block 1; thence north on the east line of said Block 1 to the point of beginning; this description covering all of the property in Prairie Hills Addition, Prairie Hills Addition Replat and Prairie Hills Addition No. 2.

The following streets in said district shall be improved by the construction of paving and such other work as may be incidental thereto:
Elk Creek Road from the east Right-of-Way line of County Road No. 545, easterly and then north to the north line of Lot 14, Block 1, Prairie Hills Addition Replat, extended west.

Beckman Circle from the east line of said County Road No. 545, easterly and then north to the north line of Elk Creek Road.

Hudsons Road from the north line of Lot 8, Block 1, Prairie Hills Addition Replat extended west; thence south to the intersection with Beckman Circle and County Road No. 545.

Robert Road from the east line of Hudsons Road to the west line of Elk Creek Road.

If a majority of the resident owners of the property directly abutting on the streets to be improved file with the Village Clerk within twenty days after the first publication of this Notice on or before the 21 day of October 1971, written objections to the creation of such District, such improvements in said District shall not be made as provided in said Ordinance but the section of said Ordinance creating said District shall be repealed, if said objections are not filed against any District in the time and manner aforesaid, the Chairman and Village Board of Trustees will forthwith cause such work to be done and such improvements to be made and will thereupon cause to be levied assessments on the lots and parcels of land abutting on or adjacent to such streets especially benefited thereby in such District in proportion to such benefits to pay the cost of such improvements.

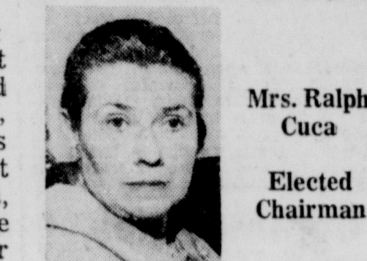

If any written objections are filed to said Paving District as provided herein, the Chairman and Village Board of Trustees will meet on October 22, 1971 at the Village Hall in said Village at 7:30 o'clock p.m. to consider the sufficiency of such objections.

The date of the first publication of this Notice is October 1, 1971.

BY ORDER OF THE CHAIRMAN AND VILLAGE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF MALCOLM, NEBRASKA
Arthur Eilers, Chairman
Dean E. Pillard, Village Clerk

Mrs. Cuca Is Elected Chairman

Mrs. Ralph Cuca has been elected chairman of the executive board of directors of the Catholic Social Service Bureau. She Succeeds William Bogar.

Mrs. Cuca is a former president of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. She has been active in the United Fund drive, Women in Community Service and other community and religious organizations.

The director of the Catholic Social Service Bureau, Father Edward Tuckey, laid out a plan for the coming year in a talk to the board.

He said the board will study the feasibility of linking the administrations of Family Service, Child guidance and Catholic Social service.

He said the foster home program initiated by the board last year would be continued and that one or two "parent centers" would be established on a parish basis to help strengthen family life and to help in identifying emotional and behavioral problems early in childhood, before they become serious problems in adolescence.

Ak Horse Show Honors Captured By Lincolmites

Omaha — Lincoln 4-H members took both the boys' and girls' championships Thursday at the Ak-Sar-Ben Light Horse Show.

Sue Tubbs, 15, outclassed 57 other girls on her 9-year-old Pokey King, on the heels of a silver medal and trophy at the State Fair. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Tubbs, Route C.

Scot Ossenkop, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ossenkop, Route 7, and the winner of two purple ribbons at the fair, beat 35 other boys in horsemanship on 3-year-old Red Bee's Foxy.

Scot also won the boys' western pleasure title.

The girls' western pleasure title went to another Lincolnite, Deanne Kobler, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kobler, No. 1 Forestview Circle.

Sony Copple, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Copple, 2 Forestview Circle, won the barrel racing title with a time of 15.21 seconds atop 7-year-old Scotter Dan. Christy Drake of McCook was second.

Other horse show winners: Clara Evans, 16, Kearney, first in pole bending for the second year in a row; Debi Mack, 17, Curtis, first in the reining class after taking second the past two years; and Janet Freeman, 17, Sac City, Iowa, won the pony pleasure class trophy for the fifth straight year.

School Officials Accused Of Ignoring Title I Guidelines

The school superintendent for the Lincoln Roman Catholic Diocese said Friday that action by Lincoln Public Schools officials leaves a "clear indication that there is no desire . . . to follow federal guidelines" in administration of federal Title I funds.

"The mask Lincoln Public school administrators have been hiding behind has dropped," Father James Dawson said in a prepared release.

"If there was any doubt in anybody's mind about where Lincoln Public Schools' administration stands in regard to services for educationally handicapped children in the private schools, that doubt can no longer exist."

Dawson said his statement was in reaction to matters at a meeting last week of the local policy advisory committee on Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

He said he proposed at the meeting that the committee "go on record favoring the concept that the federal education funds coming to Nebraska should be used as federally intended."

But he said his motion was tabled after Lincoln Title I director Fred Petersen, who chaired the Sept. 24 meeting, said "he did not like these resolutions."

Contacted Friday by The Star, Petersen said he believed it "wrong to ask a group of over 50% lay people to try to respond to a political question our courts have been tied up with off and on since 1965."

"We want to find out what the policy is going to be," he said, whether the questions are answered in the courts or by the U.S. Office of Education.

The USOE is sending a team here next week to review the controversy over the funds, which the state attorney general has said cannot go to pay for services inside private schools.

Catholic educators have urged that federal guidelines require that programs such as remedial reading funded through Title I must be carried on in the private schools, rather than forcing private schoolchildren to go to public schools for those sessions.

Bank Clearings Show Increase

Lincoln's three downtown banks Thursday reported that bank clearings for September 1971 totaled $121,562,776.

This compares with $90,985,602 for the same month in 1970.

The total for this year, January through September, is now $1,145,411,066.

Stalemate Ends On Berlin Pact

Bonn, Germany (AP) — East and West Germany ended their stalemate on the German-language translation of the four-power agreement on Berlin Friday and decided to get on with working out details.

Negotiators Egon Bahr of West Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany met for 4½ hours and agreed to meet again in East Berlin next Wednesday.

Bahr said the breakthrough actually came Thursday, when the two governments signed an accord to improve postal communications between the two German states.

In this, the East Germans recognized the right of the West German Postal Ministry in Bonn to negotiate and sign for West Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

Bahr said the accord met "in content and in spirit" the Berlin agreement signed by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union Sept. 3. It showed there was "no qualitative difference" in the German texts used by the East and West Germans, he added.

Bahr said the East Germans also appeared ready to recognize that Bonn had competence to deal with traffic to and from West Berlin. They had previously sought two separate accords, one dealing with traffic to West Berlin and one with traffic from West Berlin.

Ferguson Wants Positive Action From Sen. Curtis

Democratic senatorial candidate Donald Ferguson of Lincoln Friday challenged Republican Sen. Carl Curtis to "translate his rhetoric into action" regarding his views on the military draft.

Curtis' statements to students at Union College in Lincoln last week were "typical of how Curtis talks but doesn't do," Ferguson said.

Curtis told students he believed the draft should eventually be eliminated, Ferguson noted, but that he voted for its extension because of the Vietnam War.

Ferguson said he believes that the draft should be terminated in favor of an all-volunteer military system.

And, he said, he hopes Curtis will now prepare legislation to introduce to the Senate which will call for the establishment of a volunteer military and set the conditions for its implementation.

Russian Blonde Defector

London (AP) — A stunning Russian blonde entered Britain's spy drama Friday when the government disclosed that KGB officer Oleg Lyalin's secretary defected with him last month.

This development, with its overtones of a Soviet love affair, gave the situation the trappings of a James Bond film.

Husky-voiced Irina Teplakova, 31, asked for and was granted political asylum on the day her boss, Lyalin, defected with the British say, a dossier of Soviet espionage secrets.

The pair, according to a Home Office spokesman, now are "staying with friends." This was understood to be an official way of saying they are united at a secret hideout near London under protective British detention. Each is married but the spokesman gave no details on their families.

Gains in Moderate Stock Market

New York (AP) — The stock market closed the week Friday with a moderate gain, extending its rally into its second day.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 6.79 to 893.98. On Thursday, the Dow rose a little over 3 points.

Analysts said the upturn was primarily the result of bargain hunting. The market had been sliding in recent sessions, they pointed out, and many issues were becoming oversold.

The moderate volume indicated that no great buying spree had developed, analysts continued. Still, they regarded the advance as a positive sign, since it developed in spite of fairly negative news developments.

Strikes by coal miners and longshoremen dominated the economic news background.

The still unsettled international monetary situation and uncertainties over what will follow the expiration of the current wage-price freeze were major background factors affecting the market.

Hog Prices Are Higher At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Butcher hog prices were steady to mostly 25 cents higher in active trading on moderate supplies at Omaha Friday.

Sows were steady.

Bulk 200-240 lb. butchers sold 20.00-20.50, latter price high for the week; 240-270 lb. 19.25-20.25; 270-360 lb. scarce, 17.75-19.75.

Sows 325-650 lb. 16.25-17.50.

Fed steers and heifers were nominal. Cows steady under narrow demand. Beef cows sold 21.00-22.50, few extra good 22.75-23.00; canner and cutter 18.50-21.00. Bulls nominal.

Slaughter lambs nominal.

LAFF-A-DAY

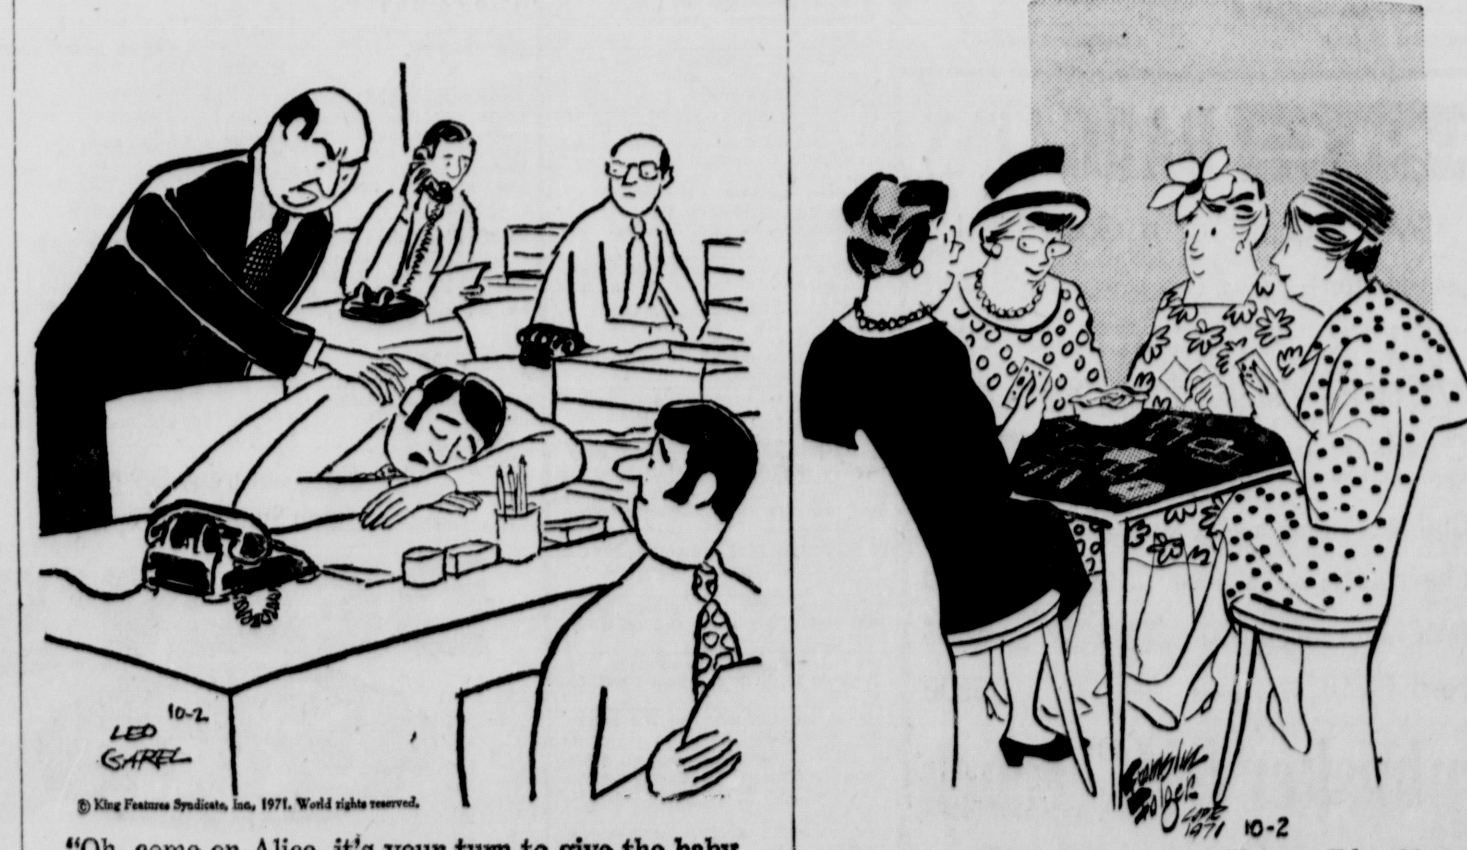

THE GIRLS

by Franklin Folger

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:
Because frozen cured meat loses quality rapidly, bacon should not be kept in the freezer more than a month.
Of the nation's 400,000 policemen, 15,000 to 20,000 are Negroes.
Iceland is the oldest living democracy, having created a parliament in 930, the oldest existing one.
The European hare depends on speed as its primary defense against danger. It has been clocked at 50 miles an hour over a 100-yard stretch.
Vegetables and vegetable products worth $206 million were exported from the United States last year.
Porpoises' fixed smiles and fondness for play are deceptive. Actually, these mammals are high-strung and, when overworked, prone to stomach ulcers.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE
Here's How to Work It
One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
